At last, we hear the murmured sound,
The Cord has snapped, to earth that bound
That wondrous, loving, Spirit, Bright,
And entered in Eternal Light.

Yes. We have lost Roosevelt, dear,
And sorrowing hearts are far and near.
But weep not, for that great man
But do his wishes all you can.

For his, has been a noble Life
In times of suffering, or of strife.
But now, his pains on earth aremo'er
And he will suffer them no more.

I see him sitting on God's right,
Clad in raiment, spotless white
And hear the Father's "Welcome Son"
With loving words. "Well done, Well done"
