Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
Hyde Park, New York,

Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

May I borrow a few moments of your valuable time?

During the excitement of the recent war I wrote some excited letters to various members of the press, and to others.

I am afraid they will be circulated and I do not want them to be.

Could I ask you to disregard them or put them in the waste-basket?

All this from a loyal American with good intentions, if somewhat confused.

Yours truly,
H. J. Finney
(Herbert)

P.S. They were common ordinary letters, not criminal, but maybe foolhardy.
