Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt
Delegates of the U.S.A.
United Nations Headquarters
New York, N.Y.

My dear Madam:

Please allow the undersigned to petition your recommendations and support on the following proposal:

In brief, the undersigned volunteers this services to the United Nations for the purpose of entering China proper and contacting General Mao relative to an armistice or at least a "cease fire".

Please do not think this folly. It is believed that the present offers great opportunity for the successful accomplishment of such a mission. It is further believed that much can be accomplished by such a mission.

The undersigned believes that through such a face to face meeting, plus the outlining of both the Chinese and U.N. policy, that an immediate or eventual armistice, or compromise, may be reached.

BRASS

Indeed, the above is a bold plan and may cost the undersigned his life, however results are the desired outcome.

In event the Madame shall favor the undersigned with recommendations, it is believed that a meeting with General Mpo may be arranged. The undersigned further proposes to discuss, in detail, a proposed "agenda" for such a meeting and if at all possible to gain an audience with the Madame for final plans.

Trusting to receive a favorable reply, I am

Very truly yours,

JAMES E. BASS

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt,
New York City.

My dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

It is nearing the Memorial of him whom we all loved.
Coming at this time near ing the Easter season his life "going about doing good"
reminds us of the Christ -
and above all the virtues injustice, and condemnation of his enemies. I can hear his voice saying "My friends!"
Bass

May I share this poem with you:-

We Do not grieve.

We do not grieve when watching
down the street

To see a loved one turn and
pass from sight,

Because we trust that we again shall meet

When work is done and lamps
of home are bright.

When one turns out from Earth, we still may know

That he has work to do
at soul's behest,

And that his guided

thought steps surely go Toward spirit's beacon light and Love's sweet rest.

His journey homeward then is but the space
It takes the human heart to know in full.

That man abides in Life his home the place
Of his innate accord with Principle.

Truth comforts us and shows that all is well.

Since man is one with God,
and so we find

That we can have no parting,
for we dwell
at home together in the Realm of Mind.

H.H. Brandner.

With a grateful heart for all he and you have done,
and the struggle you still carry on:- God bless you!

Very Truly Yours,
Claude & Patricia Bass.

P.S. I had a bit of advice to ask you but this time is too sacred, may I write a gain?

Patricia Bass

The above is a good plan and I think it is better than the one I have discussed in detail.
I will favor the one you have discussed in detail.
I will favor the one you have discussed in detail.
