Dear Mrs. Roosevelt,

I was a high school senior when President Roosevelt died. He was the only man I had ever thought of as being President of the United States, and his death left me with the same sense of loss I would have felt had he been a member of my family.

Last night, while reading the French publication France - Amerique, I noticed the enclosed article by Léon Blum in memory of the late president. I am sending it to you on the chance that it might not have been brought to your attention.

We all felt the same way!

Sincerely,
Leonard C. Blumberg.
