Franklin Delano Roosevelt

April 12th, 1945 is the date I shall remember while I am alive; The time he died was 7:35. He was the greatest man alive.

President Roosevelt was his name
His words will go down in fame, Washington, Lincoln were the same,
Their names are in the bygone's game.

He did not die in pain,
But we all loved him just the same.
For a man so smart and intelligent to die,
Sad and I cried.

I admired him very much,
His speeches were sincere and with a special touch.
Only a great man like him could make a speech so such!
He was the greatest man on earth.
January 30th was his birth,
Warm Spring, Georgia is where he died,
Sad and I cried.
He was home, and was always in pain
Twas a pity, twas a pity,
That I only saw him twice in the city.

As I looked at the newspapers,
I saw photographs of when he was a boy
My heart filled with joy, for he was a handsome boy.

His favorite song was "Home on the Range"
I thought his actions were smart, but some thought it strange

His heart was smooth and fine like felt!
This was no other than wonderful President Roosevelt!

May he rest in peace
I will never cease to pray!

I shall always remember, just like
I have the 1st of December
