Dear Mrs. Roosevelt;

Emmie tells me that you and Tommie have given up your office midtown, and that I should be able to reach you here. I don't want to intrude on your always busy schedule so am just leaving a note to tell you that I've had word from the Fashion Group that you have consented to come on Wednesday, and also to do the honors, which delights me and which I appreciate very much.

In my crowded time in Chicago, I am quite sure I neglected to say that I am staying with Kathleen Cory, on Tenth street, so am borrowing a sheet of her stationery to say that I have arrived back here and shall be most happy to see you at the Biltmore. Also that I hope you've completely recovered from that unfortunate crackup, and suffered no more than the minor injuries you mentioned in your column.

Please give my love to Tommie, who isn't as well as she was - this from Emmie also - and that I shall be looking forward to seeing her, if not within the next few days, at least when I come back from Arizona in mid-February. I'm taking my mother down there for a few weeks, leaving here on Thursday.

Until soon,

Jan. 6-1947

Love Kathleen
