Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

Two years ago a group of boys and I put out a small handmade weekly paper. I am sending you a copy of THE EAGLE which, I think, will interest you.

With best wishes to you and your work in UN,

Sincerely yours,

TRIBUTES TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

I think President Roosevelt was the best president we ever had, and the war might have been over sooner if he was still alive. He helped infantile paralysis and he was the one to go to Panama Canal.

When I heard the news in the radio I thought it was bad that he died.

Raymond.

I think it very sad that our great president is dead. He was a nice man. It was a great tragedy for many Americans.

Fatuy.

The Eagles heard of the devastating shock. And now we have a new president but I don't think he will be as good as the other one.

(and we like to have little more cooking.)

I felt sorry for him. He was a very nice man, a good leader and a good person because he helped us half way through this war, got us guns, got us machine guns, rifles, hand grenades...

I think you feel the same way, fellows.

Junior.

To me President Roosevelt was the part of America which, more than anything else, made the process of my Americanization painless and even pleasant. I never felt anybody's death - not even that of my father - as much as his. I am glad I could vote for him once.

Of course, the ideals which he represented so wisely and gallantly did not die with him. Millions have seen that they add to the well-being of nations and their peoples and therefore these ideals will be remembered and practiced.

That thought makes the whole thing easier.

Filati.
