Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

A good friend of mine, Dr. George Alexander Friedman, a plastic surgeon who is a leader in his field amongst the younger men in my opinion, mentioned to me the other day that it is a shame that the marvelous advance in his field are not within the reach of all persons, for example, the poor who frankly may not be able to afford it.

The point is for example that many colored people might need reconstructive and/or plastic cosmetic surgery and not have it available to them. If you see any opportunity for a man such as Dr. Friedman who had extensive experience in the war in this field to volunteer his services in this direction, I know that he would be glad to do so. Sincerely yours,

Richard H. Roffman
