IN MEMORIAM

(Franklin Delano Roosevelt)

He has not gone; - this man whose trusting eyes
Sought out a broader road that all might prize
As rightful heritage, a richer life ahead,
Freed from futile fear, crowned with Peace instead.

He is with us still; - this man with kindly eyes
Looks far upon the land and shadowed skies,
And through listening hearts affirms wisdom's will
From deep valley roads to the star-flung hill.

There is no "death" for those who lead the way,
Whose earth-time courage inspires faith to pray.
