Madam,

We are at present engaged in the publication of a History of World War II, in 3 volumes, abundantly illustrated, the first of which will appear in July 1946 and will cover the period from the treaties of 1919 to the North African landings of 1942. (The second will describe the Allied war effort and the campaigns leading up to the surrender of Germany and Japan; the third, the United Nations Organisation and the peace treaties).

We should consider it a great honor and can assure you that the hundreds of thousands of our readers would so consider it also if you would allow us to reproduce as an hors-texte in volume I a photograph of the late President, bearing in your autograph a reminder of his constant faith in the rebirth of France and his friendship for the French people, even during their darkest days.

Perhaps you are already acquainted with our history of the first World War, as told by 1st veterans, of which 300,000 copies were printed and which was one of the great successes of its time.

Our purpose in publishing this work is to endeavour to strengthen the bonds between the Western allies by emphasizing their mutual contribution to Victory and nothing could help us more than such a symbol of sympathy.

for France as we make bold to ask from you. We are happy to have already received autographed photographs from Marshall Montgomery and Mr. Churchill, and we therefore attach particular importance to having that of the great American war leader.

With the assurance of our profound gratitude, we beg to remain,

Yours most respectfully,
