Dear Mrs. Roosevelt,

I am sending you a copy of a letter I wrote to my old school teacher, Mr. Ed McCard, Chabotville, Ind.Ind.

Please take notice I wrote this letter the next day after your husband passed away.

I am a man sixty-six years old, and I made this journey in the year of 96. 97 or 98. I do not remember which, any way though I would send it to you.

Sincerely,

Harry C. Reger

or

Mrs. Everett Clay,

To My Old School Teacher
Mr. Ed McCord

Like a swift fleeting meteor
Or a fast moving cloud
The flash of the lightning
Or the break of the wave
Man passes from life,
To his rest in the grave.

Dear Ed:

I am very sorry that you did not come over here last fall when I sent you an invitation. I had planned then for you and I to go see Franklin D. Roosevelt and was much disappointed that we did not get to do so. It has been years ago in your school room, as you remember, that I prophesied that Franklin D. Roosevelt would be President of the United States in 1940. At that time you vowed that if you and I were still living, if he did become President, that we would go to see him. Although he was a Democrat, while I am a Republican, I think that he has made a wonderful President, and not only the American people, but the world has suffered a great loss.

Now the world is clothed in sadness,
And is dressed in sober black.
But joy must reign in Heaven,
Now that Franklin's coming back.

From your former pupil,

Harry A. Reger

Dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

I fully realize that your duties are numerous and require all your strength and energy, and that your time is limited. Yet, as a leader of women, I feel that you will be doing the country and myself a service by checking the enclosed questionnaire on the essential qualities of leadership.

I am a school teacher who, you know, should teach and inculcate the qualifications of leadership into our youth - both men and women - upon whom the future of our nation rests. Therefore, your opinion is invaluable in forming a basis for the future leaders of our country.

To do this task intelligently I request your help. You can be of immeasurable assistance if you will check and return the enclosed questionnaire.

Respectfully yours,

Henry Reger
