the one Miss Rankin wrote to you about.
I would not, however, say this out

MEMO FOR THE PRESIDENT:

The enclosed bill, I do not suppose has a chance of passing but could you let me know something about it? It seems to me that special legislation of this kind is foolish.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

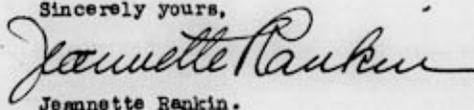

At a meeting of a group opposed to S. 2253, it was agreed that there was no one that could help us as effectively as you.

Enclosed you will find a copy of the report.
I am sure you will be interested in the Minority Views submitted by Mr. Maury Maverick of Texas and Mr. Paul Kvale of Minnesota.

It would put in jeopardy most of the splendid work done by women if legislation of this kind should be written on the statute books in peace time. It is the kind of thing that one must expect in war, but since we are doing everything we can to prevent war such legislation would be most harmful.

With my sincere admiration for your splendid efforts for women and peace, I am

Sincerely yours,

Jeannette Rankin.

Members of the Committee: Miss Rankin and Miss Seminaris from the National Council for Prevention of War, Mr. Ballard from the American Civil Liberties Union, Mrs. Koenigsberger from the National Council of Jewish Women, Miss Scott from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mr. Duncan from the People's Lobby,

MEMORANDUM FOR MRS. SCHEIDER:

Dear Malvina:

Replying to your memorandum of today regarding Mrs. Roosevelt's promise to let her press conference girls see the kitchen when it is finished and write stories about it:

Of course, stories will be written about it. That we must admit. However, it is my opinion that the least written about such an expensive kitchen installation in the White House at this time the better the result will be. I would try to minimize rather than enlarge upon this subject for news purposes. I should be careful to point out that it is a permanent installation put in the White House for permanent use; I should find out how long the old kitchen had been in use; how inadequate it was for the demands of the Executive Mansion; how long it had been used and how expensive repairs would have been had the old stallation been remodelled.

In other words, my story would follow this line rather than to give cost prices of the new kitchen, to narrate concerning the maximum output, state banquets, etc. Official social demands, no more extensive now than in the past, if as extensive as in the past, required better kitchen facilities. I believe this is true.

I would recommend that once Mrs. Roosevelt has taken the press conference girls to see the kitchen that the kitchen be closed for future publicity purposes and become a part of the domestic establishment not open to visitors.

I would allow still photographers to have one chance to photograph the kitchen. I should close it thereafter to photographers. I would not permit any motion pictures to be made.

FROM: MRS. ROOSEVELT

100
Mrs. Roosevelt

Dean Ladd and Mr. Simmonds asked to see me when I was in Ithaca. They said they reported to you that while the farm signers in New York State, under the new Agriculture Conservation Act, might be fewer than one hoped, that there was no criticism and it was coming on all right.

On the Resettlement they said Mr. Barnes in the State was very good and they were all prepared to do a good job but that there was something the matter in the regional office. They feel that Mrs. Beck is not quite up to pushing things through, nor does she quite understand the work. They are both troubled because the man who ^{have} seemed to ~~be~~ ^{have} the best knowledge of it has been dismissed ^{from the regional} and taken ^{office} to ~~the~~ Washington. There is a long delay in that office on expenditures accounts, salaries and approvals of purchases. They feel that Washington and New York State offices are good but the regional office is a great stumbling block. They fear criticism for the delay and for the lack of accomplishment. They do not feel that the State is to blame. They feel there is a misunderstanding in the regional office and possibly in Washington as to the functions that the college has always filled through farm activities in the State. They feel that they have always worked for the interests of the farmer and have no axe to grind, which seems not to be entirely understood and which brings a certain amount of suspicion which is certainly unwarranted.

The new idea of decentralization to ~~sites~~ sites seems to be unpopular and expensive as so many of the ~~sites~~ sites are very small - over head will be enormously increased. States are not used to functioning through regional offices. There has grown up a fear amongst employees of losing their jobs and it is doing harm to the whole set up. In addition this whole conservation plan under Resettlement is ~~entirely~~ tied up in the public mind with the old time reforestry plan started when F.D.R. was Governor and if it does not move along there will be very great criticism. The man's name who has left the regional office is Hobson, I think. I am wondering if Charles Fayerweather could be put into the place and if he would not do exceptionally well as he knows New York State.

I have made up the following estimate of the 1933 mail in the following manner:

On our card index which we still retain there are about	45,600
The first six weeks mail was not indexed, but filled 12 file drawers, which would hold a little less than 2,000 letters each .	22,000
Referred during the month of December to Departments without acknowledgment	6,000
Christmas and other greeting cards	20,000
Total for 10 mos.	93,600

I feel sure this estimate is very conservative.

MEMORANDUM: Political organization suggestions for 1936.

Handwritten:
9/17/36

1. A tightening up with greater effectiveness the National Democratic organization. This, I think, can best be done by an executive or campaign committee very carefully selected.

Among the organizations necessary to the unfolding and making this effective would be (a) the revival of the movement known in the pre-convention Campaign of 1932 as The Friends of Franklin Roosevelt; (b) an organization to be known as "Non-partisan Good Will Neighbor League". Concerning the utilization of this a man like Dr. Stanley High could be most useful.

2. The National Progressive League for Franklin D. Roosevelt is an organization utilized in 1932 and maintained since with headquarters in the Evans Building. Donald Richberg has been, and now is, the Executive Chairman and Mr. Melvin D. Hildreth the Executive Secretary, with Senator George W. Norris as Honorary Chairman. This organization has been most helpful and all suggestions as to other organizations looking to the end of coordinating independent forces in the campaign should be brought to the attention of the Executive Secretary, Mr. Melvin D. Hildreth, in the Evans Building.
3. A well constructed organization for educational work among the women. The Republicans have already begun their organization in this direction and we must not forget how they organized against us in 1920 and with what effectiveness they pursued us. It is suggested that Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt be conferred with in this connection and her ideas as to organization and personnel followed. A very valuable woman in this connection is Mrs. Anna Dickie Olesen, of Northfield, Minnesota.
4. The religious and moral forces of the country need special consideration, but this could be taken care of through the Non-partisan Good Will Neighbor League as suggested under No. 1 with Dr. Stanley High in executive control.

5. The impression is being too definitely created that business men as a group are anti-Administration. This of course is not all true and it would seem highly essential that a Roosevelt Business Men's League might be organized so that the people generally would understand that the National Manufacturers' Association and the Chamber of Commerce do not represent a cross-section of American business. I think that early consideration should be given to this matter so that if such a League is deemed advisable the proper business men can be approached with a view to developing such an organization early in 1936.

In this connection, such a man as Mr. Thomas J. Watson, representing larger business, and other business men, representing medium-sized and smaller businesses, could probably combine in such an effort.

6. The negroes of the country are in a more definitely friendly attitude toward the Administration than I have ever known them to be to a Democratic Administration and we should add to our organization suggestions a unit that will supervise and keep in touch with them.

We have been successful in getting a negro building for the Texas Centennial at Dallas. In this building will be displayed the handiwork as well as the historical record of negro development in this country. We have a negro committee studying the best way of handling this. It would seem well to have a committee of prominent negroes selected for the purpose of lecturing on the development of the negro. Among those who should be useful in this connection are: Congressman Mitchell of Illinois, Wm. J. Tompkins, Recorder of Deeds of the District of Columbia, G. David Houston, Principal of the Armstrong High School of Washington, Eugene Kinckle Jones and Charles Hall of the Department of Commerce, and Robert L. Vann of the Department of Justice.

7. In connection with the study of accidents and the recklessness of the liquor interests, a better control of the industry is again receiving consideration. May I suggest that you consider the advisability of calling attention in your message to the Congress to the enactment of such legislation, as will protect the dry states, making it a criminal offense to violate the provision of the Twenty-first Amendment to the Constitution which reads: "The transportation or importation into any state, territory, or possession of the United States, for delivery or use therein, of intoxicating liquors in violation of the laws thereof, is hereby prohibited".
8. We need a Foreign Language group. Very careful consideration should be given to the selection of persons to control and manage this phase of the campaign.

(Extra Copy)

February 27, 1936

My dear Miss Chandler:

Limitation or decrease of armaments among nations must necessarily be mutual. The Administration has done and is doing everything possible through its foreign relations to encourage this.

We are initiating no military or naval increases. Every increase during the past three years has been caused by one of the following things:

Even greater increases by other nations, which must be met in part by lesser increases here on the sole necessity of national defense; or

The fact that most unfortunately certain branches of our national defense minimum needs had been allowed to become so antiquated in the previous ten years that our defensive position was definitely menaced.

Very sincerely yours,

MEMORANDUM FOR MRS. ROOSEVELT:

Attention: Mrs. Scheider

Jim Hodges, Chairman of the State Democratic Committee in Florida, telephoned the Postmaster General today appealing that you do NOT visit the colored school in Florida with which a Mrs. Bethune is associated.

According to Mr. Farley's report to me, following his conversation with Mr. Hodges, Mrs. Bethune has been in Washington negotiating a loan for this school; Mrs. Bethune now is announcing that you will, when you come to Florida with the President, visit this school.

Mr. Hodges urges that you do not carry out this plan. He says such a visit would be "most unfortunate".

I have no additional knowledge and am merely passing on to you the message Mr. Farley gave me.

Hyde Park, N.Y.
July 16, 1936.

I am sending this copy of the memo which I have just sent everybody concerned.

This thing has got to begin to move! I never realized more keenly what Louis' loss meant than I do now. There is no one at headquarters who is really getting everybody else organized.

I have asked for actual statements in black and white to be in Campobello when you arrive because I feel that is the only way we will have any assurance that anything would be done before I get back on August 3rd.

More and more I hear this is a very close election and that the Republicans are organizing Landon's campaign extremely well. We can not afford to be behind hand and lackadaisical.

MEMO FROM MRS. ROOSEVELT

JULY 18, 1936.

TO: The President
Mr. Farley
Mr. Michelson
Mr. High
Mr. Early
Miss Newson

I spent part of Tuesday afternoon and the morning of Wednesday at Democratic headquarters. I had a conference with Miss Newson and Mr. Farley; a conference with Mrs. Ogan and Miss Newson; and a conference with Mr. Michelson.

My impression is that the women are further along in their organization and more ready to go than any other unit as yet. I hear from outside sources that the London headquarters are set up and ready to work full time. They have continuity people writing for the radio, they have employed advertising people to do their copy and the whole spirit is the spirit of a crusade.

My feeling is that we have to get going and going quickly, as I stated yesterday. I sat down and analyzed things which I thought necessary to organization. Some of the things I had in mind Mr. Michelson answered, a few things Mr. Farley answered for me at the time of the conferences. I am putting them down again simply as a matter of record to get the answers in black and white.

I hope the answers will be mailed to reach us at Westport, Maine on the 27th or 28th of July when the President expects to be there.

Mr. Michelson

1. At the meeting in Washington, the President said that you and Steve Early, Stanley High and Henry Suydam would constitute the publicity steering committee, and I take it this must include radio, speeches, movies, pamphlets, films, news releases and tracks or whatever news goes out to the public. This committee is extremely important.

Because of the importance of this committee I hope a meeting will be held immediately for organizing and defining the duties of the members and that you will have the minutes kept at every meeting in order that a copy may go to the President and if the committee is willing, one to me as well so that I may know just what is done each time also.

2. Who is responsible for studying news reports and suggesting answers to charges, etc.?
3. Who is responsible, not for the mechanics of radio contracts for I understand you have a good man, but for the planning of a radio campaign, getting the speakers through the speakers' bureau, making the arrangements in the states for people to listen in and getting in touch with Chester Davis, for instance on agriculture or any other people appointed as particular advisors on special subjects? In other words, who is making decisions under your committee on the above questions?

4. Who is in charge of research? Have we a department with complete information concerning all activities of the New Deal, and also concerning Landon and his supporters? If Miss Blackburn is in charge of this department as she was in the last campaign, have the heads of all campaign departments, men, women and young Democrats, been notified as to where to apply for information? This information should go out to the state committees also.

I gather if the President o.k.'s it, the aggressive campaign against Landon's record will begin before Landon's acceptance speech. Who is to collect and maintain the complete data up to date and to check on all inconsistencies in Landon's pronouncements or those of his campaign managers as they relate to his former statements and record? Is there adequate material on this now at hand?

5. What definite plans have we made for tying in the other publicity organizations, both of men and women with the national publicity organization? I feel that anything of importance should go directly from a member of your committee and from the women in charge of national publicity to every publicity person in charge in the states.
6. Have you mapped out continuous publicity steps which will be taken between now and November? Is there any way at least of charting a tentative plan of strategy for the whole campaign, changing of course, as new things occur?
7. In the doubtful and Republican states what special attention do you plan to give and have you collected any data as yet on these states?
8. Who is handling news reels and will it be a committee or just one person and will your committee direct the activities?
9. Has your committee assigned as yet to each member definite fields for supervision?
10. How many people are now working on campaign speeches, both for men and women and for young Democrats? Who is going over them for criticism so they cover all the necessary subjects?
11. Who is your man making contacts with newspapers all over the country?
12. Who is responsible for sending regular news to friendly newspapers? By this I mean feature stories, pictures, mats, boiler plate, etc.

I feel Mr. Rayburn should come at once to plan the policy and mechanics of the speakers' bureau. Then he could leave for a time.

I think it would be well to start some negro speakers, like Mrs. Bethune to speak at church meetings and that type of negro organization.

More and more my reports indicate that this is a close election and that we need very excellent organization. That is why I am trying to clarify in my own mind the functions at headquarters and have the President see a picture of the organization as clearly as possible in order that he may make any suggestions that he thinks necessary.

Eleanor Roosevelt.

Memorandum for the President

In view of the fact that I am taking my graduating class down through the homesteads Friday and Saturday, May 21 and 22, and leave again on Sunday night, the 23d, for West Liberty, Kentucky, and Arthurdale on the 25th, you might meet me in Fairmont the morning of Tuesday, May 25. We could then go to Scott's Run, drive around Arthurdale, lunch, go to the commencement exercises at 2:00 p.m., and see the factories.

I will ask Mr. Baruch to be with us on that day and perhaps you could ask him to go down on the train with you.

I have to be back in Washington on Wednesday for the Cabinet Ladies' picnic for the Senate Ladies, and the following Friday there is a newspaper women's dance.

Will you also ask Secretary Wallace and Mr. Alexander to go down with you?

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt
The White House
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mrs. Roosevelt:

Mrs. Somerville yesterday requested me to supply you with information with which to answer the following inquiry:

"Do you think the women of America should undertake an educational campaign looking toward State Control and uniformity in Child Marriage Laws; or would you advocate Federal Legislation for the protection of our greatest social and civic contract covenant?"

I assume that the wisdom of the proposal that the women of America undertake an educational campaign dealing with this general subject is not open to serious question. Whether the marriageable age should be raised through State or Federal action is the second point presented and on this it seems to me pretty clear that the action will have to come about through State rather than Federal laws. It is very questionable whether the Federal Government, which is forced to rely upon the tax power, the power over interstate commerce, etc., as the constitutional basis for legislation, could enact any law which would really work a change in the laws of the several States dealing with the age at which persons may marry. The State laws on this subject are not at present uniform; and uniformity would seem a worthwhile objective.

Some time ago the Commissioners on Uniform State Laws drafted a "Uniform Marriage and Marriage License Act". The analysis which they made of the State laws at that time is attached. However, the uniform act which the Commissioners proposed did not attempt to establish a uniform marriageable age of consent or uniform age of legal majority, although it did attempt to secure uniformity on many other points relating to marriage and marriage licenses.

Another group which might be interested in furthering the cause of uniform marriageable age statutes is the Council of State Government with offices at 850 East 58th Street, Chicago, Illinois. This organization is equipped to do research work on the subject, such as compiling tables as to the laws of the various States; and if there were any considerable interest aroused in the general subject might take some initiative in bringing to the attention of the several States the desirability for uniform legislation. It would do this through its monthly periodical "State Government". It has interested itself somewhat in the problem of uniform divorce laws. I am attaching the September, 1934, issue of this publication in which this latter subject is discussed on page 197.

I should think that the first step for organizations of women to take in a campaign for uniformity in marriage laws would be to request of the Council of State Government a thorough survey of the laws of the several States dealing with this subject. After the variations in State laws have been determined accurately and the spotlight focused upon the less enlightened States, the Council of State Government would probably be glad to assist interested groups in drafting a uniform law which might then be submitted through local women's organizations to the legislatures of the several States.

Respectfully,

Gordon Dean,

Special Executive Assistant to the Attorney General.

Commissioners' Notes

At common law the ages of 14 and 12 years for male and female, respectively, were the ages at which either might enter into a binding contract of marriage. Thirty States, including the District of Columbia, have by statute prescribed a higher age limit for marriageable consent, and in those States the marriage of a minor between the common law age of consent, and the statutory age of consent, is voidable by the minor on arriving at the statutory age of consent. See Beggs v. State, (1876) 55 Ala. 108; Eliot v. Eliot, (1890) 77 Wis. 634, 46 N. W. 806, 10 L. R. A. 568; State v. Cone, (1893) 86 Wis. 498, 57 N. W. 50; State v. Lowell, (1899) 78 Minn. 166, 80 N. W. 877, 79 Am. St. Rep. 358, 46 L. R. A. 440.

In Minnesota and Wisconsin the statutory age of consent is fixed at 18 for the male and 15 for the female, but the statute does not declare that marriages under such ages shall be void, therefore the courts have held them to be voidable only. In the remaining 17 States the ages of consent remain the same as at common law, three of those States, Kentucky, Louisiana and Virginia, having adopted said ages by statute.

Every State except South Carolina requires the consent of parents, etc., for the marriage of minors above the marriageable age of consent and under a given age. In 40 States that age is fixed at 21 for the male, in 3 States at 18, and in 1 State at 16. In the 2 remaining States, Georgia and Michigan, no age is fixed for parental consent for the male. But as in Georgia the statutory age of consent for the male is 17, and in Michigan 18, parental consent is apparently not considered necessary in these States for the male, although required for the female up to the age of 18. The age below which parental consent is required for the marriage of the female is fixed at 21 in 9 States, at 18 in 34 States (including the District of Columbia), and at 16 in 3 States.

"The age of legal majority" of the male corresponds with the age below which parental consent must be obtained in 40 States as above mentioned. If this phrase be retained in the text, then the remaining 6 States would be required to repeal their existing provisions. In a few States the age of 18 is made by statute the age of legal majority of the female. In the rest it remains 21. For the sake of uniformity, it is desirable that 21 be fixed as the age below which parental consent must be obtained for the female as well as the male; but the section has been worded so as to permit those States which have made 18 the legal age of majority for the female to retain such age.

A few States, notably Massachusetts, have a provision authorizing the court of proper jurisdiction to make an order allowing the marriage of minors, where the parents, or one of them, live out of the State, or has deserted his family, or, where the parents being dead, no guardian or curator has been appointed. Inasmuch, however, as the text of this section (line 11 and 12) uses the phrase "parent having the actual care, custody and control of such minors," it would seem as though the case of absent parents was sufficiently provided for, and that there is no need to invoke the consent of the court except where, the parents being dead, no guardian, or curator, has been appointed. In many States a guardian ad litem would be appointed.

Lillian J.

Mail is all received in central place. E.R.'s picked out and sent over to my desk.

I go through it and pick out personal mail, letters which look urgent or requiring immediate attention. Balance is sent to our office - called Social Bureau - where clerks open and assort. It is divided into three groups. The first group consists of the letters which make definite requests or complaints and which are referred directly to the respective departments for answer. The second group contains all letters asking for a contribution, to serve on committees, or for me to speak or send a message. The third group contains all others. The last two groups are returned to my secretary. Goes through, answers what she can, then refers rest to me, also giving letters of special interest, and a cross section of all of them.

In 1937 84,493 letters addressed to me were received at the White House. This is exclusive of packages, circulars, magazines, etc. Up to July 1st of this year, 48,734 letters have been received. This is an increase of 6,609 over last year for the same period.

All sorts of things will increase the mail. It may be some particular speech of my husband's; something my children have done; it may be something I have written or said; or a bill pending in Congress. I have been asked to launch innumerable businesses; find cures for all kinds of diseases and ailments; reverse the decision of a court; change a will; reform a husband or a wayward child; advise how to overrule a law or a ruling of some state official.

I have been compliment^{ed} and have had equally as many uncomplimentary letters:

All the letters are answered. Occasionally ~~times~~ I have been rebuked for not answering a letter, but it isn't hard to believe that in such a volume of mail as comes to the White House, that one or two may go astray. I am constantly surprised that so few mistakes happen.

Letter from girl in Maryland whose husband ran away and was found by Secret Service.

Letter from woman in Maryland wh, was shocked because Mrs.

R. went to World Youth Congress.
