MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

Here is the agenda of Naval matters I would like to talk with you about:

1. Carl Vinson wants us to ask for appropriations to use up the 750,000 tons unused authorization. His argument is that we may suffer drastic losses as we move into the infighting stage against Japan.

Both Admiral King and I have misgivings on this in view of the very large fleet we have now and the substantial building program as yet unfinished, and also in view of the availability of elements of the British Navy in the Pacific. On the other hand, Mike Robinson points out that getting the appropriations and starting the building program would give us insurance which would not be very expensive.

2. I would like to suggest the termination of Admiral Stark's tour of duty in London as of March 1. Chormley or Hewitt might be available to succeed him.

3. I want to discuss with you the replacement of Admiral Young as head of S. & A.

4. Certain promotions in various Staff Corps.

5. The possibility of giving the Assistant Secretary for Air seniority over the Assistant Secretary by Executive Order. The reason: Di Gates has been here three years and Hansel, of course, is a newcomer. This only has significance, of course, in the event of the absence of both myself and the Under Secretary.

6. Legislation on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Carl Vinson proposed this last summer and wanted us to draft a bill. I told him that we could not do so without discussion with you. He proposes giving statutory permanence to the J.C.S.

7. Awards to civilians working for the Navy. This latter I am rather anxious about because it is the only way by which we can give any substantial recognition to civilians who have done exceptional work directly serving the Navy.

8. When Arthur Sulzberger returned from the Pacific he expressed the view very strongly that the interest of the public in the Pacific war would be greatly enhanced by permitting publishers to make the same trip that he did — he came back very greatly impressed with the scale and scope of our operations. I wonder if you would be willing to review your original decision. I do not believe that we would have an avalanche of applicants.

9. I would like to get your wishes on the Under Secretaryship.

10. Review of Naval history.

11. Revision of Navy Regulations.

Respectfully,

James Forrestal.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT:

Mr. Summerlin asks if the President would like him to bring the Prime Minister of Poland in ahead of the others this evening, and have him come up to the President's study?
MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

April 18, 1944

A few days ago the British Ambassador furnished me with a copy of the Prime Minister's telegram to you of April 12 (no. 643).

With regard to the final portion of that message, which deals with a possible visit of General de Gaulle to this country, I believe it would be well, if you approve, for me to send a telegram in the following sense to our representative at Algiers.

"Secret for Chapin. The President has received a message from Prime Minister Churchill stating that latter has instructed Duff Cooper to inform de Gaulle in the following sense.

'The danger of bad relations growing between de Gaulle and the American Government is a source of anxiety to Mr. Churchill. Latter believes that after Mr. Hull's important speech it would be a good thing for de Gaulle to pay a short visit to the United States and make personal contact with the President. Such a visit would also prove beneficial to British relations with the French Committee since de Gaulle will understand that the foundation of British policy is to keep in step with the United States with whom the British share important war schemes. If de Gaulle should be favorably disposed and would let Duff Cooper know, Prime Minister would suggest to the President that a formal invitation be extended by the latter.'

"For your secret information consideration has been given by the President to the possibility of inviting General de Gaulle to this country, but no final decision has been reached and the instructions sent by the Prime Minister to Duff Cooper were drawn up without the President's knowledge or authorization. Any final decision in the matter will of course be communicated through American and not British channels."
MEMORANDUM FOR:

HAROLD SMITH.

Dear Harold:

The complexities of travel are still extremely grave and I wish you could have an idea of the number of people in different departments, bureaus, agencies, commissions, etc., etc., not counting Congressmen who are after me to go places which they consider the front. I want to have a talk with you some time after I get back about who can and who can not go. In the meantime, I think it best for a while to keep the Budget people on this side.

F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, D.C. 25

APR 27 1944

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

The Secretary of War has informed me that he has written you again objecting to our plan to have two Bureau of the Budget representatives visit the theaters of operation. I am sorry that you must once more be bothered with this, and I am at a loss to understand the War Department's attitude in the matter.

It must surely be evident to the Secretary that the responsibilities with respect to war expenditures that you and the Congress have placed on the Budget Bureau are important, and that we can in no wise discharge them without freedom of movement and opportunity to observe and inspect.

At a time when critics are making the most of the least evidence of mismanagement, it is especially important that your channels of supervision and control of business operation not be blockaded. To take the position that newspaper correspondents, movie stars, miscellaneous subject matter specialists, and War Department personnel of every imaginable category can be transported all over the world but that representatives of your Executive Office may not is incomprehensible to me. There is a constant flow of persons to and from the theaters of operation and two staff members from the Bureau of the Budget will add only minutely to this stream. Their requirements for travel are not different from those of others. The staff of the Budget does not travel with pomp and ceremony.

The Secretary of War need not here be concerned about comparisons with requests by high officials of other departments. There is no logic in any such comparison. The Bureau of the Budget has very definite responsibilities in connection with the budget of the War Department.

You may be sure that our staff members will not waste the time of important theater officials. As you already know, our work of the same character in the continental United States and in our bases has not only saved money and expedited operations but has been welcomed and appreciated by the affected War Department operating officials.

I would be remiss if I did not tell you that I regard the principle involved in the gravest possible way. If the War Department, based on what I regard as a flimsy argument and because it has control of certain transportation facilities, closes the door to sources of information available to many others, I cannot help but be concerned, and I think it my duty in view of my responsibilities to you and to the Appropriations Committee of the Congress to make my position very clear.
I hope you will be able to assure the Secretary of War that his fears of the trip are unfounded and that it is your wish that no further obstructions be imposed. The itinerary can be adjusted and timed to avoid the areas of impending large scale operations.

I have been assured of the cooperation of all other departments concerned.

(Signed) HAROLD D. SMITH

Director
The President,

The White House.

Dear Mr. President:

The Director of the Bureau of the Budget has advised me that he has discussed with you a plan for sending two members of his staff to visit certain active theaters of operations. I have been in touch with the Director concerning this matter and have called to his attention the fact that military personnel in active theaters are now working intently on plans for future operations and that this would be a most inconvenient time for his representatives to make the trip.

Since the Director of the Bureau of the Budget has advised me that he has discussed the matter with you, I feel it necessary to call to your attention the fact that on numerous occasions the War Department has been forced to disapprove requests from other high government officials to make such trips. You, of course, also remember the difficulties which arose with respect to members of Congress visiting overseas theaters.

Aside from the fact that it will be most difficult for me to explain to other government agencies the trip planned for members of the Bureau of the Budget, I feel forced to restate my belief that this is a most inappropriate time for such a trip. The situation in the areas to be visited is such that an undue burden will be placed on the overseas commanders to provide proper accommodations for representatives of the Bureau of the Budget, and the representatives could not properly and fully accomplish their mission under such circumstances. In view of your interest in this matter, I would like your advice before replying definitely to the Bureau of the Budget.

Sincerely yours,

8. The period of validity of any permit shall not exceed six months. In the case of persons who intend to remain in an area indefinitely (e.g. nationals returning to their homes) the permit will be indorsed "Valid for Single Journey Only." Such permits will be withdrawn at the port of entry into the area.

9. Each theater commander will:
   a. Be asked for his views, through the department having the primary interest in his theater, on each application before a Military Permit is issued.
   b. Make arrangements by which Military Permits will be marked at the port of entry into the theater with any indorsement required by the theater regulations.

b. Prescribe the length of time during which travelers may remain in his theater when they enter in transit to other areas.

i. Arrange for the return to the Joint Chiefs of Staff of all Military Permits withdrawn in his theater.

Dear John McCloy:

Returned this morning from Quebec to find your memorandum of August twenty-sixth.

Confidentially, the President had General Watson advise War Department officials regarding the policy of owner-published writers travelling in war zones. I understand that Watson gave the policy directive to General McNarney. Not a single exception to this policy has been made, to my knowledge.

I am sorry, but I do not know how I can be more helpful to you in this matter.

Very sincerely yours,

STEPHEN EARLY,
Secretary to the President.

Honorable John J. McCloy,
Assistant Secretary of War,
Washington, D.C.
During March 1943 the War Department, acting on information from General Watson, issued a "War Department" statement of policy and directive on this subject.

According to records, no copy was furnished the Navy for their information. However, it is understood that General Surles (Director of Public Relations (Army) telephoned Captain Lovette (Director of Public Relations (Navy) information along such lines.

The above information was obtained through Mrs. Dennison and Major Davenport and is recorded herewith for file purposes only.
MEMORANDUM FOR MR. STEVE EARLY:

Allen Grover of Time, Inc. came to see me today on behalf of Harry Luce who wants to go to Chungking.

There has been a general rule that publishers or owners of papers have not been permitted to go to the war theaters, and this rule has been applied in the case of Luce, Eugene Meyer, and Arthur Sulzberger, to my knowledge. It may have been applied to others.

Luce is aware of this rule but says that he wants to go to Chungking by reason of his great interest in China, not as a visitor to a war theater, but merely to visit the capital of the country with which he has long had a very close connection. He would probably make any commitments that we exacted, such as submitting any material that he wanted to write to us before publishing it, or even, I imagine, agreeing not to write any articles himself at all.

The War Department is prepared to deal with the matter on its own initiative, but if possible I would like very much to have your thoughts.

There is a ground rule here which says that no publisher or editor will be certified as a war correspondent. Has been in existence for a long time. However, Col. Subject: Visits of Civilians to Theaters of Operations.

1. At your request, proposed directives to the Secretary of War and to the Secretary of the Navy, providing for control by the Joint Chiefs of Staff of visits of civilians to theaters of operations, were sent to the Secretary of State for comment. The Secretary has suggested that the original proposal be modified, "* * * in the sense that the Joint Chiefs of Staff shall, from time to time, in consultation with the Department of State, delimit zones into which no civilian may go without consent of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

2. The purpose of the Joint Chiefs of Staff original proposal was to control civilian travel which might have a direct or indirect effect upon active military operations. Accordingly, amended directives to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy and corresponding directives to the Secretary of State and the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been prepared. These directives have the concurrence of the State Department and it is recommended that they be issued.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT:

Subject: Visits of Civilians to Theaters of Operations.

1. At your request, proposed directives to the Secretary of War and to the Secretary of the Navy, providing for control by the Joint Chiefs of Staff of visits of civilians to theaters of operations, were sent to the Secretary of State for comment. The Secretary has suggested that the original proposal be modified, "* * * in the sense that the Joint Chiefs of Staff shall, from time to time, in consultation with the Department of State, delimit zones into which no civilian may go without consent of the Joint Chiefs of Staff."

2. The purpose of the Joint Chiefs of Staff original proposal was to control civilian travel which might have a direct or indirect effect upon active military operations. The suggestion of the Secretary of State being in line with this objective, is concurred in by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Accordingly, amended directives to the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy and corresponding directives to the Secretary of State and the Joint Chiefs of Staff have been prepared. These directives have the concurrence of the State Department and it is recommended that they be issued.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT:

Subject: Visits of Civilians to Theaters of Operations.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff at their meeting on 3 August 1943 agreed that the following policy with reference to the visits of civilians to theaters of operations should be adopted, and they submit this policy to you for your approval:

Representatives of non-governmental civilian concerns and societies and of governmental departments and agencies, not under the control of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, will be authorized to visit theaters of operations only when such visits are determined to be necessary in the prosecution of the war or of specific and direct benefit to the forces in the theater.

The Secretary of War or the Secretary of the Navy, after consultation with the theater commander concerned, will determine the necessity for, and the benefits to be derived from, any proposed visit by non-military personnel and will fix the time and other conditions with respect to any such visits that may be authorized.

MEMORANDUM for The President.

Subject: Composition of Carrier Task Groups.

References: Your memos of August 12 and September 16.

1. The questions presented in your memorandum of August 12 were referred to the General Board for study and report. For your convenience, the views of the Board are digested herein.

2. The explicit reply to the second question in your memorandum of August 12 is as follows:

Relative AA Total Fire of 5DDs vs 1CA or CL

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Type</th>
<th>No.</th>
<th>6&quot; CL</th>
<th>5&quot;/38</th>
<th>40 mm</th>
<th>20 mm</th>
</tr>

<td>20</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

These figures are based solely on numbers of guns installed. The actual fire power realized therefrom depends on such variables as disposition of ships in formation, bearing and type of target (horizontal bomber, dive bomber, torpedo plane).

3. The first question in your memorandum of August 12, in spite of the fact that, ton for ton, a modern destroyer can put up a heavier AA fire than any other type, is answered in the negative, for the reason that the question can not be viewed from antiaircraft considerations alone. The other considerations, of diverse nature, which are, in the aggregate, of much greater weight than AA fire power are:

(a) Carriers are highly vulnerable to shell fire and torpedo attack, and regardless of combat conditions in the air, they need protection from high speed surface ships. This has led to the formation of "carrier groups", and it is the carrier group, rather than the carrier alone, that forms a unit of a task force.
MEMORANDUM for The President.

Via: Admiral Leahy.

Subject: Composition of Carrier Task Groups.

(b) Task forces, of which a carrier group more often than not forms a part, must be varied in composition according to the task to be performed. In some cases an all destroyer escort would be suitable. In others it would be unsuitable.

(c) A carrier's defenses against air attack, in order of their effectiveness are:

1. her own planes
2. her own AA battery
3. AA fire from ships in company

(d) The comparative value of cruiser and destroyer protection against surface and submarine attack can not be accurately evaluated. The former, for obvious reasons, are incomparably superior against surface attack and their planes are of great assistance at times against either. The latter have the advantage against submarine attack.

(e) Commanders of high echelons should have at their disposal any and all types of ships which now exist, to permit maximum flexibility in making up task forces to meet the wide range of requirements. To do this effectively they are likely to need destroyers, cruisers of all classes, and even fast battleships, in various combinations.

4. The present shortage of cruisers is critical. As more carriers become available, the situation in this respect will grow worse instead of better. The General Board therefore recommends against any change in the building program which would reduce the number of cruisers now projected or delay the completion of those under construction.
