We regard with apprehension the shift of population from farm to city. ~~The~~ increased production of agricultural and mineral raw materials is essential to our well being and to the ~~proper~~ ^{adequate} purchasing power of the dollar at home and abroad.

We favor first an intensive campaign to call to the attention of city dwellers the vast area of ~~productive~~ unoccupied lands suitable for agricultural use in every part of the country; second, the reclamation on a bigger scale than ever before attempted of the arid and swamp lands; third, the extension of greater financial assistance to home owners through the ~~Nation~~ Farm Loan Board, and finally ~~namely~~ that the Federal Government take the lead in making ~~possibilities~~ the conditions which surround farm life more attractive and more in keeping with the ~~most~~ ^{highest} standards of American civilization.
