My dear Mr. President:

It was with a great deal of satisfaction that I listened to your address to the Congress on Monday; also your radio talk on Tuesday evening - it indeed made me feel proud to know that I am an American.

I have always been a Republican and have opposed many of your policies; in fact I have written in opposition to your foreign policy many times, but I now realize that you have been right in your analysis of the situation ever since Hitler began his overrunning of the various European States.

Our prayer is that you may be guided aright in the prosecution of this conflict and that you will be spared the opportunity to help us win the peace after final victory has been achieved.

Right shall prevail! I just wanted to express my gratitude for what you have already done, and are doing, to preserve America.

My Dear President;

I did listen to your heart breaking speech on the radio at 12.30 today, and would really try to express my gratitude and sincerity in you, as I and many millions have always wished and hoped for your good health and strength to pull us through this grave crisis that god only knows that we did not wish for.

I have been a constant supporter of your policies, from the day you entered office as Pres. of these U.S. as your foresight and views have always come true, and just as you predicted on all the important matters at home and abroad, same as your dear wife and our brilliant first Lady had said a few months ago when she stopped in this city, that we would wake up after the bombs drop on our city hall, so I hope and can see that we did awake since the terrible war started on us Sunday.

So my dear President and great leader, may god give you strength health, and the always great courage to lead us to the greatest victory these U.S. ever achieved, and we all know that you can do this great job 100%, as you have proved this to your bitterest political foes and they are with you 100%, so keep up your great chin as the world is in your favor and the majority of the peoples.

And closing this letter we are all hoping and praying for a good and just peace for all the peoples and freedom from the terrible stangulation suffered by the dictators and murderers.

Always sincerely yours,

Dear Sir:

May I express the hope that the slip of the tongue that made the President say "unboundin" in his recent address to Congress when he obviously meant "unbounded" may be corrected officially before it is too late? That was an historic address and it would be unfortunate if the error should be perpetuated whenever the document is quoted in full. "Unfaltering" would perhaps have been a better word, and it seems likely that that may have been the word he really intended to use.

As an old newspaperman yourself, I know you will understand my thrill today when I read the President's great message to Congress. I think it was the finest bit of writing--and speaking--I have ever seen or heard. I had my radio turned on to listen to it while I had the copy in my hand as it came over the wires.

There can be no doubt now that this country is 100 per cent behind the President in every respect. I am sure that you know, without my saying so, that we are working just <sup>as</sup> hard--or harder--for our country these days as we are in our chosen profession.

I am glad that you took time out of a busy day to write me that splendid letter of December eighth. Of course, I needed no assurance that your organization is working just as hard these days for the country as its members are in discharging the greatly increased duties and responsibilities of their respective jobs. Loyalty is a grand thing, both among men and organizations, and I am very glad that out of a very busy life you took time to tell me that your personal services are at my disposal in any way that they can be useful. I would appreciate it if you would tell the President that as one plain American citizen I thought his brief address today before the joint session of the Congress was grand; just enough and without heroics. Inasmuch as Japan started this war, we must, of course, finish it--in Japan. But that does not mean that we should become involved in war with any other country that does not declare war against us, or commit a definite act of infamy as Japan did.

I take this opportunity of extending in advance the traditional Season's Greetings to the President and to Mrs. Roosevelt, and to yourself.

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt
President of the United States
Washington, D. C.

Honorable President:

Your address to Congress following the dastardly attack on Hawaii and the Philippines was a noble effort, full of confidence that the people of this nation would rally after you to support your declaration of war against Japan, which Congress unanimously granted. The attack of Japan was the electric spark which welded the people of this country into a completely united support of your declaration of war, a unity which, I believe, had never been approached at any other time since you first took office.

However, there has already been injected into the situation the factor which is going to undermine the confidence of not a few people of this nation. I refer to the inclosed clipping by David Lawrence which appeared in yesterday's local paper. There must be some truth in the article; otherwise, neither he nor the newspapers would consent to publishing such. It is the same old question of strikes, not by the unions themselves so much as by their leaders, who have been "hamstringing" the efforts of this country since the beginning of war preparations; and which, if continued, will render us impotent as a fighting organization. It may even undermine the morale of the army and navy when the boys, who have enlisted at the risk of their lives at a relatively low compensation, find that men who are furnishing the means of prosecuting the war at relatively high wages are going on strike for more money; still worse, are haggling and quarreling over control for government of their individual unions.

I have just recently returned from a six week's trip east, from Richmond on the south to Portland, Maine on the north, stopping at most of the large cities on the way. Nearly all the newspapers were full of this type of criticism I have referred to, consisting of articles on serious conditions dealing with our internal troubles; and I believe we have more to fear from these troubles among ourselves than we have on account of the war started by the Japanese or any of our other enemies.

Although I am one of that vast multitude who voted against you a little over a year ago, I have found much in your foreign policy that meets with my approval. I want to assure you that I am now one hundred percent with you in this all out effort against Japan and the other nations of the Axis. I feel willing to pay my income taxes and other taxes without complaint. Last year and this year I have invested in nothing except government bonds and shall continue to do so to the best of my ability.

It seems to me that you have a wonderful opportunity before you, that if you can weld this nation together by overcoming what internal differences there are, you may be named in history on the same plane as George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. It would be possible for any man in your position and with such a condition as confronts you to do this. Personally, I am with you one hundred percent in this total war effort, and I shall refrain from criticisms that I may have indulged in in the past until you have had the time necessary to iron out some of the internal difficulties of this country.

Believe me, Mr. President, most sincerely yours for a united people.

So help us, God.

When Will Administration Hit the Ball and Prevent Strikes?

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—It has not yet been fully borne in on the Roosevelt administration that a war is on and that the United States navy has already suffered a severe defeat.

The President is still planning "conferences" with labor and management instead of issuing orders for action. Congress, instead of being alert to its responsibility, is still awaiting word from the executive branch of the government before it determines how to discharge its duties.

A case in point is the way the President is handling labor legislation. He is already lukewarm about restricting strikes, although everybody here knows that millions of man-hours have been lost because of strikes. The idea now voiced by the President is to try voluntary cooperation once more. It has been tried and it has failed. In the face of pleas and exhortations by the President that America was in danger, work on important naval contracts was suspended and the coal supply of the nation was diminished. Now Mr. Roosevelt proposes to keep on talking and asking for more conferences by those who have failed to discipline their rank and file.

The sad truth which the country has not been told by the administration is that neither the A. F. of L. nor the C. I. O. can maintain discipline over their locals and that they have conceded they have only a sort of moral influence over their constituent locals. With the lend-lease program in effect and upward of 100 lives lost on the Reuben James, the coal strike and the insurrection in the commercial coal mines took place. Yet the administration is talking about giving "voluntary cooperation" a further trial.

Disabling Delays.

The United States faces a serious debacle in its Defense program. The country is in for some unpleasant news when it learns how the whole program has been delayed through strikes, red tape, inefficiency and the politics of class warfare. "America is unprepared for a two-ocean war," is the word of rejoicing which the Berlin radio is broadcasting. And the reason, of course, is that the President has failed to organize the production of the nation on a basis that will make up for the deficiencies in our army, navy and air force.

When Bernard M. Baruch came back from Europe in the autumn of 1938 after the Munich conference, he tried to warn the President of the needs of the army and navy and air force. He said Chamberlain capitulated because England was unprepared. Whatever the mistakes and delays prior to the outbreak of war in September, 1939, there certainly is scant excuse for the dawdling way the Defense program has been handled since that date.

Hiding the Truth.

It has taken the serious defeat in the Pacific to wake up the country to the truth about the way things have been going. In a democracy it is often through political evasion that the truth is concealed. But the facts about production are easy to obtain. The whole industrial mechanism has not been functioning properly. Management has been suspicious of the efforts of the New Dealers to put over their government ownership schemes and labor has been given no word of denunciation from the government until recently for ignoring the requests of the administration to stop strikes.

In the midst of this class friction and with an international war in the offing, the President resorted to a scheme to put over the compulsory unionization of the local mines which does not look well in the record. John L. Lewis ignored the President's requests twice and yet today he has been rewarded by a presidential appointee, who has granted him all he asks for. It paid Mr. Lewis handsomely to strike.

Labor Out of Control.

The leaders of labor say they are behind the government and the Defense program. They have said this dozens of times in the last two years but the strikes and interruptions happen just the same. The President, it was believed, would not temporize with the situation any longer. But he is doing so again.

Word that longer hours must be worked and that a seven-day week will be requested has come at last from the President. William S. Knudsen, coordinator of the OPM, begged for this in a public speech just a year ago, but his advice was ignored.

SAYRE PLEADS FOR SWIFT AID

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 13 (Saturday). (P)—Swift help for the Japanese-invaded Philippines was urged tonight by Francis B. Sayre, United States high commissioner, who declared, "We on the front line are fighting to the death, for we have abiding confidence in our cause and in our leader."

"We know you back home will send us help and you won't permit divided counsels or capital and labor disputes or red tape or anything else to delay your getting effective help to us before it is too late," Sayre said in a radio broadcast to the United States.

"We are in the fight to stay," he said. "War enjoins upon us all: Action, action, action."

"Time is of the essence. Come on, America!"

Sayre paid high tribute to Filipinos fighting alongside Americans, declaring "They are proving with their lives the loyalty pledged to the United States by President Manuel Quezon."

"Out here on the firing line we have gone to grips with reality," the high commissioner said. "We have seen Japanese squadrons of planes shining in the sun, dropping swift death and destruction upon portions of Manila and upon Cavite, across the bay."

"Men are fighting and dying for America and American ideals. The American army and navy are on the job."

Dear Mr. President:

Although I do not believe in war under any circumstances, I do myself the honor to congratulate you on the magnificent addresses which you have made to the Congress and the people of the USA this week.

On one point I would respectfully offer one suggestion. After living five years in China, I learned that when one uses the word Manchu-kuo, it is a tacit recognition of the Japanese conquest of that country. In order to avoid that expression which pains our Chinese friends and allies, it is only necessary to use the term Manchuria. Confirmation and explanation of this point should be easily available at the Chinese embassy.

Respectfully and sincerely yours,
