March 17, 1942.

The President,

The White House.

Dear Mr. President:

x220

Monthly review and revised schedule of allocations to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics as of March 15 is forwarded herewith in accordance with your previous desire in this matter. I am pleased to report that March will see the completion of certain items contained in the original Protocol requirements.

During February it was possible to ship more tanks than previously scheduled, and as a result the deficit was reduced by about 33%. In March we plan to deliver 270 light tanks which will materially further reduce this deficit.

In accordance with our efforts to provide the Soviets with adequate allocations of ammunition not only to match delivered weapons, but to permit continued use in combat, there has been authorized for March approximately double the number of rounds provided in February.

With the clarification of the shipping problem trucks authorized for transfer to the U.S.S.R. have been increased.

The U.S.S.R. will continue to receive during March approximately 90% of the field wire manufactured in the United States.

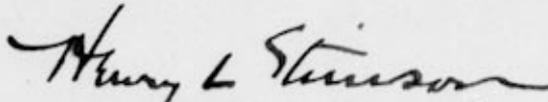

One million yards of Army overcoating has been made available to the Soviets, completing the Protocol requirement. Approximately 200,000 yards of woolen rejects have been furnished, and delivery of 400,000 yards of suiting will be completed in June. The number of pairs of shoes scheduled for March has been materially increased since my last report.

Approximately $2,000,000 worth of medical supplies have been furnished up to February 28.

It should be noted that in a good many instances items are only scheduled for transfer for the month of March. This is in actual practice the present policy of both the Munitions Assignments Committees and the Munitions Assignments Board. Schedules for April and May are indicated for certain items but they are of necessity not firm.

Faithfully yours,

Secretary of War. x25

My dear Mr. McCabe:

x220

The present Protocol agreement with the U.S.S.R. terminates, in large part, with the end of this fiscal year.

I understand that, from a strategical point of view, the Army and Navy feel that aid to Russia should be continued and expanded to maximum extent possible, consistent with shipping possibilities and the vital needs of the United States, the British Commonwealth of Nations and others of the United Nations. I share such a view.

x48
x4725

In the near future, I expect to discuss this question with the U.S.S.R.

I desire that you submit to me by April 6th next the monthly assignment schedules of major items pertaining to your department which you recommend be offered to the U.S.S.R. during the period July 1, 1942 - June 30, 1943. It is appreciated that Soviet needs may not be known, but, when necessary, assumptions should be made which are based upon your estimate of the Soviet situation.

I am asking Mr. Harry Hopkins to consolidate and coordinate the recommendations of the various departments and agencies concerned, and would like to have you designate someone to represent to him the views of your department and to assist him in his task.

Dear Mr. President:

In compliance with the instructions contained in your letter of March 24, 1942, the War Department submits herewith its recommendations for the monthly assignment schedules of major items to be offered to the U. S. S. R. during the period July 1, 1942, to June 30, 1943. x220

These recommendations have been prepared on the bases that any balances which may be due from the existing Protocol after June 30, 1942, will be absorbed in the proposed assignments recommended to become effective on July 1, 1942, and that credit will be taken for articles contained in the new Protocol for which requisitions have been previously approved with deliveries scheduled after June 30, 1942.

Where items are in an undefined status, it is suggested that the definition when made should be agreeable both to the U. S. S. R. and to the War Department. It is also suggested that the Protocol should provide for bilateral discussions with a view to downward revision if a constantly increasing quantity of any item placed in storage results in an accumulation in excess of shipping probabilities.

Adherence to a monthly schedule will be very difficult as such a schedule does not permit sufficient flexibility to meet variations in production, the possible unavailability of ships and other factors. It would be helpful if the monthly schedule rates were regarded as tentative with the accumulated total firm in the periods from July 1 to December 31, 1942 and January 1 to June 30, 1943.

Every effort will be made to supply with each weapon its accuracy life in ammunition. In instances where the quantity of ammunition available is insufficient for this assignment, it is proposed that it be furnished per weapon on the same basis as to other theaters of operation, or as otherwise directed by the Combined Chiefs of Staff.

A study of aircraft production schedules has indicated very clearly that the Army Air Forces will be unable to meet present commitments with the United Kingdom and equip the operational units contemplated during the period in question if aircraft are made available for transfer under the new Protocol. However, in view of the extreme importance of aid to Russia as pointed out in your letter, the recommendations submitted here-with contemplate the continuance of the rate established in the existing Protocol in the new Protocol period.

Respectfully yours,

WHEREAS, The United States and China are signatories to the Declaration of United Nations of January 1, 1942, which declares that "Each government pledges itself to employ its full resources, military or economic, against those members of the Tripartite Pact and its adherents with which such government is at war"; and

WHEREAS, the Congress of the United States, in unanimously passing Public Law No. 442, approved February 7, 1942, has declared that financial and economic aid to China will increase China's ability to oppose the forces of aggression and that the defense of China is of the greatest possible importance, and has authorized the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, with the approval of the President, to give financial aid to China, and

WHEREAS, such financial aid will enable China to strengthen greatly its war efforts against the common enemies by helping China to

In order to achieve these purposes, the undersigned, being duly authorized by their respective Governments for that purpose, have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I.

and will promote the establishment of lasting world peace and security. In determining the final terms and benefits full cognizance shall be given to the desirability of maintaining a healthy and stable economic and financial situation in China in the post-war period as well as during the war and to the desirability of promoting mutually advantageous economic and financial relations between the United States and China and the betterment of world-wide economic and financial relations.

My dear Mr. President,

In accordance with your request of March 17, 1942, to Mr. Stettinius, I am submitting herewith schedules of the availability dates of the materiel and shipping under the Russian Protocol, as compiled from figures obtained from the Departments and Agencies concerned.

These schedules are complete excepting as to a very few items under the Protocol respecting which considerable additional study is necessary to obtain accurate information. Such items will be included in my next periodic report covering the status of the Protocol. If these schedules are adhered to, the only important deficiencies at June 30, 1942 will be in planes, anti-aircraft and anti-tank guns, sole leather and cold-rolled sheets and strip. In addition to the Protocol items, food and other non-Protocol materials have been shipped as shown in the attached schedules.

Your approval of the program reflected in the schedules would clarify the responsibilities of all concerned.

Very sincerely yours,

To date there has been a total of 133 sailings for Russia, of which 99 have been of American ships and 34 of Russian (21 from the West Coast and 13 from the East Coast).

In addition to the 133 sailings for Russia, there have been 19 ships carrying cargoes for other countries, which carried deck loads of bombers for Russia.

The 133 sailings were made by 131 ships, 2 ships having sailed twice.

The foregoing allocations are in addition to any Russian ships which may be available. The Russian ships transport primarily food from West Coast ports.

It is estimated that if these ships are made available the protocol schedules can be attained and that shipments of food and some other urgently needed non-protocol items can be continued.

My dear Mr. Nelson:

x220

The present Protocol agreement with the U.S.S.R. terminates, in large part, with the end of this fiscal year.

I understand that, from a strategical point of view, the Army and Navy feel that aid to Russia should be continued and expanded to maximum extent possible, consistent with shipping possibilities and the vital needs of the United States, the British Commonwealth of Nations and others of the United Nations. I share such a view.

x25
x18

In the near future, I expect to discuss this question with the U.S.S.R.

I desire that you submit to me by April 6th next the monthly assignment schedules of raw materials, machine tools, et cetera which you recommend be offered to the U.S.S.R. during the period July 1, 1942 - June 30, 1943. It is appreciated that Soviet needs may not be known, but, when necessary, assumptions should be made which are based upon your estimate of the Soviet situation.

I am asking Mr. Harry Hopkins to consolidate and coordinate the recommendations of the various departments and agencies concerned, and would like to have you designate someone to represent to him the views of your department and to assist him in his task.

In the near future, I expect to discuss this question with the U.S.S.R.

I desire that you submit to me by April 6th next the monthly assignment schedules of major items pertaining to your department which you recommend be offered to the U.S.S.R. during the period July 1, 1942 - June 30, 1943. It is appreciated that Soviet needs may not be known, but, when necessary, assumptions should be made which are based upon your estimate of the Soviet situation.

I am asking Mr. Harry Hopkins to consolidate and coordinate the recommendations of the various departments and agencies concerned, and would like to have you designate someone to represent to him the views of your department and to assist him in his task.

I wish the preparation of these estimates to be kept confidential.

Very sincerely yours,

RECEIVED

The President
The White House

Dear Mr. President:

In response to your letter of March 31, I submit the attached tables showing the estimated quantities of major agricultural commodities which could be made available to the USSR during the period July 1, 1942 to June 30, 1943. There are also included in the tables probable supplies of certain particular items which we know are desired.

x227

As you will readily understand, these figures cannot be considered as final. It has been necessary to make certain assumptions which may be altered by unforeseen circumstances. Moreover, these figures represent quantities far in excess of the probable shipping available. Our purpose in preparing the supply table on this basis is to make it possible for Soviet authorities to select the quantities they desire of each of the items after they have considered their needs and the probable availability of shipping space. From our standpoint, it would be very helpful to have advance notice of Soviet requirements for each commodity so that we can make the necessary adjustments in our production and purchase programs.

There is also attached a recommended monthly shipping schedule based on estimated Soviet requirements and probable shipping space.

I have designated Mr. Roy F. Hendrickson, Agricultural Marketing Administrator, as the representative of this department to discuss our recommendations with Mr. Harry Hopkins.

x1-y

Respectfully,

Claude A. Wickard

Secretary

Dear Mr. Nelson,

x220
x4193

Thank you very much for your letter of April 1st.

The fighting on the Russian front is of vital importance.

We should do everything possible to aid the Russians. Over and above the finished and raw materials that we are sending pursuant to the Protocol, we should also do everything possible to send them the raw and intermediate materials in addition to the Protocol items.

As to the non-protocol items, we should supply the Russians on the same basis as our own armed forces, except where it would result in an extraordinary interference with our own production and thus cut down on the number of finished munitions that we can ultimately send to Russia.

In determining whether an extraordinary interference will result, I will appreciate it if you would discuss the situation with the Lend-Lease Administrator so that in each case you can both evaluate the time within which the material requested by the Russians could be translated into finished equipment by them, whether or not the items are required for replacement or maintenance, and any other relative circumstances.

With this as your guiding policy I am sure that you and the Lend-Lease Administrator will come to quick and final decisions. In very exceptional cases where you both deem it advisable please take up the matter with Mr. Harry Hopkins.

Sincerely yours,

With further reference to my memorandum of April 11th, I suggest the accompanying draft of a letter from you to Donald Nelson in answer to his attached letter of April 1st.

Both the general policy and method, as mentioned in the letter, are concurred in by Nelson and Batt, who have given their usual fine cooperation in working out this solution. I am confident of our ability to jointly reach prompt decisions under this procedure.

Memorandum for the President

*Order
4/1/42*

In the War Production Board meeting March 24 we discussed your letter of March 17 directing "that all materiel promised under the Protocol be released for shipment at the earliest possible date regardless of the effect of these shipments on any other part of our war program." In following up the implications of this policy, we find a problem arising on which we feel further guidance is necessary.

The Russians have made and we have filled a great number of requests for items not included in the Protocol at all. Many of these requests conflict very drastically with our own military program; at the same time many of the same items are considered by the Russians to be more important than some of the items in the Protocol itself. For example, we have been urgently requested to supply about 8½ million tank and aircraft size ball bearings. These are said to be necessary because Russia's production facilities have been dismantled and moved back into the interior and are not yet back in operation. We have arranged to meet about a third of the request without serious interference with our own program; of the unfilled orders, which the Russians say are equally urgent, those for tank and aircraft bearings total well over a full month's production of comparable bearings for our own tank and aircraft programs. If we are to meet the Russian request for these bearings immediately, which is when they are wanted and undoubtedly needed, we will have to be prepared for actual stoppages of production in our own tank and aircraft factories. It may be that as a matter of strategy you would regard it more important to supply these bearings for use in Russian planes and tanks than in our own schedules of production.

Similar problems arise under such items of the Protocol as do not involve a quantitatively specific commitment such as machine tools and the category of "various industrial equipment" where we have said simply that we would do everything practicable.

We do not feel that our general policy in regard to Russian aid is sufficiently clear to tell us how far we should go in resolving these conflicts between Russian requests and our own military needs.

Dear Mr. President,

Herewith is transmitted, in accordance with your request, a report on the status of the Soviet aid program as of March 31, 1942.

x220

You will note the substantial progress that was made during the month of March, both in regard to goods made available and actually shipped.

Further improvement in the flow of goods to Russia is being made in April. This is indicated by the 45 ships sailing during the first 14 days as compared with the 44 ships which sailed during the entire month of March.

Data on the amount of goods lost through sinkings are included in this report for the first time. Value of cargoes sunk to March 31st was equivalent to 12% of the value of shipments to that data. On a tonnage basis the percentage would be somewhat less.

In addition to the amount of goods made available under the Moscow protocol, substantial shipments of non-protocol items have been made. The amounts are shown in the table on the next to the last page of this report.

Dear Mr. Early:

This will confirm my conversation with your secretary concerning your question as to the use by the Press of certain material contained in the Confidential Report to the President on Lend-Lease Progress.

I see no reason why this material should not be used.

If it is desired to reproduce the two charts "Lend-Lease Aid-Monthly" and "Lend-results can be obtained from the photostat copies contained in the report. We could within a couple of hours, however, furnish you with as many copies as you may require, reproduced in a form suitable for further reproduction.

I should like to know also, if on Page 1, you have any objection to the release of Paragraphs 1 and 2, plus the first sentence of Paragraph 3.

Kindly let me hear from you.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: Thomas B. McCabe

At present there is no outstanding finding by the President that the defense of the Government of Iraq is vital to the defense of the United States.

The question of Iraq is closely linked from the political point of view with that of Iran. Problems of need and supply for the entire area are similar. It is urgently desired that an announcement about Iraq be made at the same time as the announcement about Iran. x134

Accordingly, I am sending you herewith a draft of a letter finding the defense of the Government of Iraq vital to the defense of the United States. This is entirely satisfactory to the State Department.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF:

Our protocol agreement with the U.S.S.R. with reference to airplanes reads as follows:

"Airplanes will be supplied through October 1942 at an average rate of 100 pursuits, 100 light bombers and 12 medium bombers per month. Commitments will be made for the balance of the year on the basis of developments incident to the progress of the war."

The time has arrived when a decision should be made as to commitments for the balance of the year.

It seems clear to me that the "developments incident to the progress of the war" are such that we must give to the Russians from November 1, 1942 to July 1, 1943, the period of the second protocol, an average of 100 pursuits, 100 light bombers and 12 medium bombers per month. It seems to me that no other decision is consistent with the realities of the war.

Indeed, I wish the Joint Chiefs of Staff would give immediate and careful consideration to increasing this number. I wish you would consider particularly, in reaching a decision on this point, the present number of planes and plans to augment them in inactive theaters of the war, including Continental United States.
