My dear Mr. McNutt,

Your telegram of October 14th, suggesting Manila as a place for holding the Nine Power Conference, duly reached me through the War Department.

By the time this telegram was received, the Department of State was already in communication with foreign governments respecting the place of meeting for the Nine Power Conference, and Brussels had been tentatively agreed upon. It was, therefore, not considered practicable to entertain your suggestion.

I am, my dear Mr. McNutt,

Yours,

The Honorable
Paul V. McNutt,
United States High Commissioner to the Commonwealth of the Philippines,
Manila.
