Franklin D. Roosevelt Library & Museum

Collection: Grace Tully Archive
Series: Grace Tully Papers
Box 1; Folder = Correspondence: Cardozo, Benjamin N., 1930
Miss Mac Tully,
Secretary to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
Executive Mansion,
Albany, New York.

Dear Miss Mac Tully:

I have a harrowing fear that I have shamefully misspelled your name, but you will give me credit, I hope, for good intentions, and recognize yourself beneath the disfiguring disguise.

I learned from the clerk of the court that the calendar of cases for the January term is very short and that we are not likely to be in Albany as late as Thursday, January 15, though calendar prophecies, like prophecies of other sorts, are sometimes belied by the event.

I do not remember as the result of our talk over the telephone whether Mrs. Roosevelt has any other evening that week available for the dinner. Monday, Tuesday, or even Wednesday would be preferable for the judges in view of the shortness of the coming session.

With many apologies for harassing you with all these difficulties, I am,

Very truly yours,

Benjamin N. Cardozo

Chief Judge