With Report on Mass Murder

By LOWELL MELLETT

The War Refugee board, composed of the secretaries of state, war and treasury, recently made public a report on the mass extermination by the Germans of Jewish men, women and children in prison camps at Birkenau and Auschwitz in Southwestern Poland. As compared with the 1,500,000 persons declared by the Russian government to have been killed in three years at Lublin, this report estimates the number murdered at Birkenau between April, 1942, and April, 1944, at 1,765,000.

The horror of this story is so great that our minds instinctively recoil. We don't want to believe. We don't want to think such things can happen. We remember too that many atrocity tales told during World War I turned out to be untrue. We don't want to be misled again. Sharing this feeling to some extent, despite all the evidence in its hands of a deliberate German policy of extermination, the board hesitated a long time before making the document public. The substance of the present information was received by cable in July. The full text came by mail more than a month ago.

The decision to give the information to the American people resulted in part from the fact that it was sponsored by a special assistant to the American minister to Switzerland, Roswell D. McClelland. Mr. McClelland, a Philadelphian, has been engaged in relief and rescue work in Europe for several years for the American Society of Friends. The document contains two reports, one made by two young Slovak Jews and one by a Polish major. The reports were made independently and without consultation between their authors. Both were delivered into Mr. McClelland's hands by the representative of the Czech government in Geneva to whom they had come through underground channels.

"While it is, of course, impossible to directly vouch for their complete authenticity, I have every reason to believe that they are, unfortunately, a true picture of the frightful happenings in these camps," Mr. McClelland wrote to the board.

In connection with the report of the Slovaks, Mr. McClelland said he had talked with a member of the Bratislava papal nuncature, who had personally interviewed the young men and who declared the impression they created in telling their story was thoroughly convincing. The young men were closely cross-examined, he said, and the material that finally went into their report included only that about which there was no uncertainty in their minds or in the minds of their examiners.

The Czechoslovakian representative vouched for the reliability of the Polish major and for the authenticity of his report. Mr. Clelland himself corrected the translation from German into English.

The figures concerning the numbers of men and women admitted to the two camps cannot be taken as mathematically exact, the authors themselves saying they are no more than reliable approximations. But, in the opinion of Mr. McClelland, a precise statistical record would not detract in any appreciable degree from the value of these reports.

McClelland checked information in the reports concerning the dates and points of origin of convoys of Jews arriving at the camps, with information possessed by reliable Jewish and non-Jewish organizations in Switzerland regarding the departure of such convoys from various European countries. Some of the information he was able to check by his own experience. He was in Southern France in August and September of 1942 and witnessed the deportation of large convoys of foreign Jews from four internment camps, obtaining considerable first-hand information concerning their numbers and the dates of their departures.

The reports themselves seem completely convincing to anyone who reads them. The mass of detail given is calculated to overcome any doubts. A limited number of copies of the 60-page report has been mimeographed and may be obtained by writing to the War Refugee board in Washington.

The purpose in making the report public is to give the American people some understanding of the serious nature of the refugee problem and to enlist support for the board's efforts to relieve a diabolical situation. A further purpose will be served if the report helps drive home the necessity to organize the world against aggressive warfare.

Dear Secretary Stimson:

I was much moved this morning when reading something about your report of bestial cruelty and murder by the million in German concentration and extermination camps.

If this report is avai;able I should be glad to have you send me a copy.

My only son is a Colonel in your army and I am much interested in learning more of the treatment given the prisoners and others by the Germans.

Yours very truly,

O. E. Gunderson

U. S. Charges Nazis Tortured Millions to Death in Europe

War Refugee Board Says 1,765,000 Jews Were Killed by Gas in One Camp Alone; Witnesses' Testimony Gives Details of the Atrocities

By George Polk

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—The War Refugee Board, in what was regarded as the most shocking document ever issued by a United States government agency, made public today an official report on German atrocities that have caused the death of "millions of innocent civilians—Jews and Christians alike—all over Europe."

The "revolting and diabolical" German atrocities were described as a "campaign of terror and brutality which is unprecedented in all history and which even now continues unabated and is part of the German plan to subjugate the free peoples of the world."

The 25,000-word indictment of Germany was assembled by the W. R. B. as one of the agencies under the executive office of the President of the United States. The board consists of the three highest ranking Cabinet officials—Cordell Hull, Secretary of State; Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of the Treasury, and Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War. John W. Pehle is the board's executive director.

The report is an indictment of the entire German nation, for the board makes clear that the atrocities were directed from Berlin, and that they were German atrocities which were planned and executed by Germans. There is no singling out of the Nazi party or the Gestapo as being responsible for the horrible deeds described. Nor is there any hint that the thousands of Germans involved made any protest regarding what the board says is "the German campaign of extermination and torture."

The information contained in the report came from two young

Lowell Mellett

The War Refugee Board, composed of the Secretaries of State, War and Treasury, made public a report on the mass extermination by the Germans of Jewish men, women and children in prison camps at Birkenau and Auschwitz in Southwestern Poland. As compared with the 1,500,000 persons declared by the Russian government to have been killed in three years at Lublin, this report estimates the number murdered at Birkenau between April, 1942, and April, 1944, at 1,765,000.

Lowell Mellett

The horror of this story is so great that our minds instinctively recoil. We don't want to believe. We don't want to think such things can happen. We remember too that many atrocity tales told during the last war turned out to be untrue. We don't want to be mislead again. Sharing this feeling to some extent, despite all the evidence in its hands of a deliberate German policy of extermination, the War Refugee Board hesitated a long time before making the document public. The substance of the present information was received by cable in July. The full text came by mail more than a month ago.

Believes Reports Authentic

The decision to give the information to the American people resulted in part from the fact that it was sponsored by a special assistant to the American minister to Switzerland, Roswell D. McClelland. Mr. McClelland, a Philadelphian, has been engaged in relief and rescue work in Europe for several years for the American Society of Friends. The document contains two reports, one made by two young Slovak Jews and one by a Polish major. The reports were made independently and without consultation between their authors. Both were delivered into Mr. McClelland's hands by the representative of the Czech government in Geneva, to whom they had come through underground channels.

...be assured.

Careful Check Adds Authenticity To Reports of Nazi Mass Murders

"While it is of course impossible to directly vouch for their complete authenticity, I have every reason to believe that they are, unfortunately, a true picture of the frightful happenings in these camps," Mr. McClelland wrote to the board.

In connection with the report of the Slovaks, Mr. McClelland said, he had talked with a member of the Bratislava Papal Nunciature, who had personally interviewed the young men and who declared the impression they created in telling their story was thoroughly convincing. The young men were closely cross-examined, he said, and the material that finally went into their report included only that about which there was no uncertainty in their minds or in the minds of their examiners.

The Czechoslovakian representatives vouched for the reliability of the Polish major and for the authenticity of his report. Mr. McClelland himself corrected the translation from German into English.

Figures Are Estimates

The figures concerning the numbers of men and women admitted to the two camps cannot be taken as mathematically exact, the authors themselves saying they are no more than reliable approximations. But, in the opinion of Mr. McClelland, a precise statistical record "would not detract in any appreciable degree from the value of these reports."

McClelland checked information in the reports concerning the dates and points of origin of convoys of Jews arriving at the camps, with information possessed by reliable Jewish and non-Jewish organizations in Switzerland regarding the departure of such convoys from various European countries. Some of the information he was able to check by his own experience.

The reports themselves seem completely convincing to anyone who reads them. The mass of detail given is calculated to overcome any doubts. A limited number of copies of the 60-page report has been mimeographed and may be obtained by writing to the War Refugee Board in Washington.

Dear Sirs:

Would it be possible to obtain a copy (60 pages, I understand) of the report on the massacre of the Refugees and internees by the Germans in Poland?

I, and a circle of my friends, are interested in the manner in which its findings were obtained and of being made aware of more of the details than were published in the newspapers.

Gentlemen:

About two months ago there were articles in the newspapers about a report of the WRB about the German atrocities.

Interested to get a copy of the report I wrote to the "Aufbau". They informed me that this report has not been published for the public so far and referred me to you.

Can you let me have a copy? I am a refugee and immigrant myself, from Vienna, and had to leave my mother behind. She probably became a victim of one of the death camps and I, therefore, would like to have this document of barbarism.

Very sincerely yours

Dear Mr. Pehle:

The New York HERALD TRIBUNE yesterday on it's front page ran an article in connection with German atrocities, in which it outlined your 60-page report on the subject.

If within your province to do so, would you be kind enough to mail a copy of such report to the undersigned? I have read similar articles in TIME and NEWS WEEK in the past, but should like to get something authentic on the subject from a governmental source.

With many thanks for your effort,

Yours very truly,
