At Miss Hodel's suggestion I talked with Mr. Pinkus this morning, offering them the editorials on the reports in case they didn't have them. He was extremely cordial and said he was sure their New York office had the editorials, but he would check to be sure.

Incidentally, he told me that he had stood up for us down there and told the people to whom we talked when we were there that he thought the least they could do with a new agency was to send it copies of the regulations which were made before it came into existence. He also told me that they were inclined to see things under the bed down there and be over-cautious. He thought we had handled the thing extremely well and was delighted with the play the stories received. He said he had seen the letter Mr. Davis sent you.

I told him I knew they were mad at us down there and we were sorry. He said I should be very sure that no one in his division was mad at us.

V. H.

P. S. He also told me that he had excellent reports of the London coverage of our stories. I sent it to Reuters, the British AP.
I am almost coming to the modest conclusion that OWI might take a lesson from us on the atrocity stories.

The editorials are coming in nicely. I have talked to several Washington correspondents who have said we were very smart to send the reports directly to their papers, despite breaking Mr. Davis' rules. Most of the editorials can be traced to our doing it.

As for the bad effect on the Sixth War Loan, please watch for a column in the Birmingham Age-Herald (now being photostated and should reach you tomorrow). The columnist uses the atrocity stories as a means of encouraging bond buying.

Do you think we should heap coals of fire on OWI and offer them copies of the editorials to use overseas, as one of the gentlemen suggested that they might do? Or let them stew in their own juice?

V. H. M.
Mr. Dill of the Foreign News Desk, CWT, called to say they had received a telegram from overseas which said that the "report of the American administration on refugees" had been read and put into the record in connection with the trial of 5 Germans. It seems that the Russians have named 5 Nazis to be tried by the Poles in connection with the happenings at Auschwitz-Birkennau.

Mr. Dill wanted to know if we knew what report was referred to. I told him the only construction I could put upon it was that it was the report the WVS had issued.

TASS (Russian) used our stories overseas, as a recent cable indicated that 16 inches of newspaper space was devoted to them in Russia.

FROM: MR. SHAEFFER'S OFFICE

TO: MRS. FEHLE

Mrs. Acton (in the duplicating division) told me this morning that the priest in her Catholic church here yesterday talked about the WRB atrocity reports in his sermon.

Mrs. Baturin (in Mr. Blough's office) told me that Rabbi Gerstenfeld of the Jewish Temple at 8th and Eye Streets, discussed it in his talk yesterday morning and told his congregation to go home and read the story for themselves in their newspapers.

V. M. M.
FROM:  MR. SHAFER'S OFFICE

TO:    MISS HODIE

Here is what seems to be a lovely example of Army hindsight. This morning the Army's Information and Education Division telephoned for 4 copies of the atrocity reports, apparently to be sent to their magazines. The public relations officer who requested them seemed to be acting on orders from Mr. McCloy.

Millions Murdered By Germans

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The War Refugees Board—three members of President Roosevelt's Cabinet—sponsored today a 25,000-word detailed report of brutal cruelty and murder by the million in German extermination camps.

The board, composed of State Secretary State Hall, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, and War Secretary Stimson,

"The board has every reason to believe that these reports present a true picture of the frightful happenings in these camps.

The report consisted of two eyewitness accounts of life in the Nazi camps at Auschwitz and Lodz, prepared independently but almost precisely parallel.

Each included an estimate that more than 1,500,000 Jews from various European countries were gassed and their bodies cremated at Birkenau from between April, 1942, and April, 1944."
Sirs,

To-day's paper refers to a 25,000 word document on mass murders by the Germans. I would like to have a copy if possible.

Yours very truly,

On the Other Hand:
A Horror Story From Poland
By LOWELL MELLETT

The War Refugees Board, composed of the Secretaries of State, War and the Treasury, made public last Sunday a report on the mass extermination by the Germans of Jewish men, women and children in prison camps at Birkenau and Auschwitz in southwestern Poland. As compared with the 1,500,000 persons declared by the Russian Government to have been killed in three years at Labin, this report estimates the number "suffered at Birkenau between April 1940 and April 1944, at 3,762,000.

The horror of this story is so great that our minds instinctively recoil. We don't want to believe. We don't want to know such things can happen. We remember too that many atrocities were told during the last war turned out to be untrue. We don't want to be lied to again.

Sharing this feeling to some extent, despite all the evidence in its hands of a deliberate German policy of extermination, the War Refugees Board hesitated a long time before making the document public. The substance of the present information was received by cable in July. The full text came by mail more than a month ago.

Reports Vouched For

The decision to give the information to the American people resulted in part from the fact that it was sponsored by a special assistant to the American Minister to Switzerland, Roswell D. McClelland, Mr. McClelland, a Philadelphian, has been engaged in relief and rescue work in Europe for several years for the American Society of Friends.

The document contains two reports, one made by two young Slovak Jews and one by a Polish Major. The reports were made independently and without consultation between the authors. Both were delivered into Mr. McClelland's hands by the representatives of the Czech Government in Geneva, to whom they had been through underground channels.

In connection with the report of the Slovaks, Mr. McClelland said, he had talked with a member of the Bratislava Catholic Nunciature, who had personally interviewed the young men and who declared the impression they created in telling their story was thoroughly convincing. The young men were closely cross-examined, he said, and the material that finally went into the report included only that which there was no uncertainty in their minds or in the minds of their examiners.

The Czechoslovakian representative vouched for the reliability of the Polish Major and for the authenticity of his report. Mr. McClelland himself corrected the translation from German into English.

The figures concerning the numbers of men and women admitted to the two camps cannot be taken at mathematically exact, the author's themselves saying they are no more than reliable approximations. But, in the opinion of Mr. McClelland, a precise statistical record "would not do credit to any man or any nation," and the value of these reports An Eyewitness to Terror

McClelland elected information.

In the reports concerning the data and public origin of the sources of Jewish men and women at the camps, with information procured by reliable Jewish and non-Jewish organizations in Switzerland regarding the departure of Jewish envoys from various European countries. Some of the information he was able to check by his own experience. He was in Southern France in August and September of 1942 and witnessed the departure of large numbers of Jews from different internment camps, obtaining considerable firsthand information concerning their numbers and the date of their departures.

The reports themselves seem completely convincing to anyone who reads them. The mass of detail given is calculated to convince any doubter. A limited number of copies of the 60-page report has been microphotographed and may be obtained by writing to the War Refugees Board in Washington.

The purpose in making the report public is, of course, to give the American people some understanding of the serious nature of the refugee problem and to enlist support for the Board's efforts to relieve a despaired situation. A further purpose will be served if the report helps drive home the necessity to organize the world against aggressive warfare.
Dear Sirs,

Please send me the 60 page report of Paul D. Crandall of Mass Extirmination of Jews, men, women and children.

Yours very truly,

Frank Bungard
