Dear Mr. Kahn:

The President has referred to me your recent letter concerning your desire to have your brother, who was taken by the Germans from Poland to a concentration camp in Germany, brought to this country.

I regret that the War Refugee Board is not in a position to help you in this matter, but I am enclosing a list of private agencies which I understand are qualified to assist in problems of this nature. While I am not informed as to what facilities for immigration are available at the present time, I suggest that you communicate with any one of these agencies for such information and assistance as they may be able to give you in your efforts to arrange for your brother to come to the United States.

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. President,

As a father, and as President of these great United States, I find it necessary to write to you at this particular moment.

Ten years ago, I came to America from Poland.

I left a family of seven, consisting of a father, mother, two sisters and three brothers. The youngest boy was then 4 years old.

The last I heard of them was in 1939, before German occupation of Poland.

I wonder if you could do anything to help me bring this boy, who has suffered so much, to this great country.

I'm now a citizen of the United States and am established in business. I'm married and
