Program for Relief and Repatriation of Refugees. Evacuation to Switzerland.

Rescue of Refugees from France and Italy (UNRRA, International Refugee and Relief Committee).
FOREWORD

It is not often given to people who invest their gifts in human beings rather than in financial securities to see so quick and ample a return as we have been allowed to collect on the work of the International Rescue and Relief Committee. We had no money and our strength to aid the proved enemies of Hitler in a Europe that seemed to be crumbling into shambles before our eyes. We refused to believe that the dream of liberty could be beaten, or that the power of free men had to be lost to the world. We believed with all our hearts that ultimately it is the dreamers—the dreamers of the high and inspiring dreams of the spirit—who are the masters of the earth. Today, when the forces of the democratic powers are on the march to victory, we have a double joy—the satisfaction of seeing our nation sharing in a victory for all the ideals on which its life was founded, and the satisfaction of seeing the men we rescued from the terror now enlisted in the ranks that are banishing tyranny from the earth.

Their lot was cast in a dark place. For long months the little flames that still lighted their world flickered and threatened to go out. They walked with Death at their elbows. But now they live again. The flickering light is rising to the glory of beams. And they know—men who have suffered really know—for what they fight.

Here is the story of some of them. It is told not that we may boast of what we have done, but that we may be grateful together that we have had a little part in the keeping of genius and great talent alive. Keep this booklet. You will return to it many times in later years, and find a glow for your heart in it as it reminds you of the time when we refused to deny the democratic faith or to leave undone the one thing we still could do in a paralyzing world.

I greet you once more as a fellow-soldier in the fight against the fascists and the Nazis. I shall welcome you if you will join us in the membership of the Committee which we must keep alive until all the threats are gone and the freedom of all peoples is assured.

Participating in the National War Fund

The National War Fund is a fund-raising, philanthropic federation operating throughout the country, which has endorsed the work and assumed responsibility for the budgets of seven agencies designed to relieve various forms of human need and distress arising out of the war.

The International Rescue and Relief Committee is a member agency of the National War Fund, through its affiliation with Refugee Relief Trustees, Inc., a committee to coordinate the work of three cooperating agencies in the field of refuge relief.
THE WORK OF THE INTERNATIONAL

THE STORY OF OUR WORK IS THE STORY OF A DETERMINED EFFORT TO HELP THE FIGHTERS FOR DEMOCRACY AND OPPO-
POSITION TO THE NAZI REGIME. FROM 1933 ON, THE INTERNATIONAL RELIEF ASSOCIATION SENT FUNDS TO GROUPS OF POLITICAL REFUGEES IN ANTWERP, BRUSSELS, STOCKHOLM, AND PARIS, TO SUPPORT THEM IN THEIR UNDERGROUND FIGHT AGAINST THE RISING NAZI MOVEMENT. THE SCOPE OF THE WORK GREW AS MORE DETERMINED LEADERS WERE COMPELLED TO LEAVE GERMANY AND ESTABLISH CEN-TERS OF RESISTANCE IN NEIGHBORING COUNTRIES. BY THE OUTBREAK OF THE WAR IN 1939, HUNDREDS OF FRONT-LINE FIGHTERS AGAINST FASCISM WERE EMBRACED IN FRANCE, READY TO COOPERATE WITH THEIR UNTIMED OPPOSITION IN OPEN OR UNDERGROUND ACTIVITY AGAINST THE NAZI REGIME.

AFTER THE FRANCO-GERMAN ARMISTICE IN JUNE 1940, THE PLIGHT OF THE ANTI-NAZI REFUGEES BECAME DESPERATE. UNDER THE TERMS OF THE ARMISTICE, THE VICHY GOVERNMENT AGREED TO SURRENDER ON DEMAND TO THE GERMANS AND ALL ANTI-NAZI GERMAN, CZECH OR AUSTRIAN NATIONALS THAT HITLER MIGHT DESIGNATE. AMONG THOSE DIRECTLY MURDERED BY THIS SHAMEFUL AGREEMENT WERE LEADERS OF EUROPEAN CULTURE, DISTINGUISHED FIGURES IN THE WORLD OF SCIENCE AND SCHOLARSHIP, INTERNATIONAL MODEL LABOR LEADERS, HUNDREDS OF MEN AND WOMEN WITH UNASSAILABLE RECORDS OF SERVICE IN THE DEMOCRATIC CAUSE.

AMONG THOSE WHO ESCAPED ACROSS THE BORDER IN THE EARLY PART OF 1940, THE VIENNA COMMITTEE FORMED UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF DR. FRANK KINGDON FOR THE EXPRESS PURPOSE OF RESCuing PROVEN ANTI-NAZIS IN DANGER. FUNDS WERE IMMEDIATELY SUBSCRIBED, AND A REPRESENTATIVE WAS DISPATCHED BY PLANE TO LISBON, WITH INSTRUCTIONS TO GO IMMEDIATELY TO FRANCE, GET IN TOUCH AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE WITH THESE MEN AND WOMEN, AND THEN TO ESTABLISH SOME MEANS OR ROUTE WHEREBY THEY MIGHT BE BROUGHT TO SAFETY.

REScue AND RELIEF COMMITTEE

WITH THE OPENING OF A SMALL OFFICE IN MARSEILLES IN AUGUST, 1940, BEGAN A LONG AND UNRELenting STRUGGLE BETWEEN A FEW DETERMINED WORKERS REPRESENTING THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AND THE FORCES OF THE GESTAPO. THE MEN WHOSE BOTH SIDES Sought WERE OFTEN IN HIDING OR IN CONCENTRATION CAMPS, SOMETIMES UNDER ASSUMED NAMES, SEPARATED FROM THEIR FRIENDS, WITHOUT ANY PAPERS, PASSPORTS, VISA OR MONEY. BY A MIRACLE OF HUMANITY AND COURAGE, AGAIN AND AGAIN THESE HUNTED MEN AND WOMEN WERE SUCCESSFULLY RESCUED FROM THE DANGERS OF THE GESTAPO, AND BROUGHT TO FREEDOM AND SAFETY IN AMERICA. IN A FEW CASES, EACH ONE A LATTER TRAGEDY, THE GESTAPO TOOK BLOOD. BUT FROM THE BEGINNING OF OUR WORK UNTIL THE PRESENT, NEARLY 2,500 OF THE MOST VALUABLE AND DETERMINED FIGHTERS FOR DEMOCRACY HAVE BEEN SAVED.

AMONG THOSE WHO ESCAPED ACROSS THE BORDER IN THE EARLY PART OF 1940 WAS ONE OF OUR MOST ENDANGERED AND DEVOTED WORKERS, AN EXPERIENCED ORGANIZER AGAINST HITLER, WHO HAD BEEN IN THREE DIFFERENT CONCENTRATION CAMPS SINCE 1940, HAD TWICE ESCAPED AND BEEN RECAPTURED, AND FINALLY MANAGED TO BREAK OUT OF PRISON A DAY AHEAD OF THE GESTAPO AND GET ACROSS THE SWISS BORDER. FROM HIS NEW HEADQUARTERS, HE IS ABLE TO HELP THOSE WHO ESCAPE ACROSS THE BORDER, AND TO COMMUNICATE WITH US AND WITH HIS FAMILY AND TO RECEIVE FUNDS FOR HIS KINDRED.

WE HELPED THESE MEN AND WOMEN ON THE BASIS OF THEIR CURRENT DANGER AND PAST RECORD. THEY HAVE AMPLY JUSTIFIED BOTH THEMSELVES AND US BY THEIR WORK SINCE THEY CAME TO SAFETY AND LIBERTY. THEIR STRUGGLE FOR DEMOCRACY AND FREEDOM GOES ON WITHOUT CESSION; THEIR RESCUE HAS BEEN BUT A STAGE IN THEIR LONG BATTLE AGAINST THE TOTALITARIAN FORCES OF REPRESsION.
MARC CHAGALL, born in Russia, and long a naturalized Frenchman, is recognized as one of the greatest painters of the modern school. He has paintings in all important European collections of modern art except those under the influence of the Nazi philosophy, and in many American museums. Chagall left Paris in the summer of 1940, went to the unoccupied zone, and was evacuated to the United States by the International Rescue and Relief Committee in May 1941. Since his arrival in this country he has worked with even increased originality and vigor. Among the important projects he has completed since his arrival are the costumes and scenery for Massine's ballet, Aloha, produced by the Ballet Theatre in New York in October 1942. Recent exhibitions of his work have been held in New York and Washington, and paintings of his have lately been acquired by museums in Buffalo, Chicago, and St. Louis.

André Masson, recognized as one of France's most distinguished contemporary painters, has also long been known as an ardent anti-fascist. He was in Spain during the Civil War, and in 1940 when the Germans entered France he was obliged to abandon his studio with all his paintings and flee with his family to southern France. There they established contact with a representative of the International Rescue and Relief Committee who arranged for the visas, passage, and passports necessary for their evacuation to the United States. Since it would have been extremely dangerous for the Massons to pass through Spain, they had to wait until a ship left direct from Martinique.

In the two years that he has been in this country, Masson's art has greatly evolved. He has had exhibitions in Baltimore, Boston, Chicago and New York, and has been invited to send a collection of his paintings to London this winter.

WAADA LANDOWSKA is generally accepted as the world's greatest harpsichordist, a musician of genius, and an authority on pre-Bach music. Virgil Thompson, critic of the New York Herald Tribune, said of her: "She plays the harpsichord better than anybody else ever plays anything."

She was obliged by the Nazi occupation of France to abandon her renowned school and concert hall in Saint-Leu-la-Foret near Paris and to seek refuge in unoccupied territory. Severely hampered by the pressures of the Vichy regime, she sought freedom in America and reached New York in the winter of 1941 through the help of the International Rescue and Relief Committee. Almost immediately after her arrival she played for a crowded audience in New York and has since then given concerts in many other cities, and made an extensive tour of Canada. She will tour the United States this winter.

JACQUES LPCHEUTZ is generally considered one of the three greatest sculptors of his generation. A citizen of France, his work has long been highly esteemed in America. He had to leave his studio and his life work when the Germans entered Paris, and to make his way to Toulouse in southern France. Throughout the winter of 1940-41 his talents were stifled and his works censored by the Vichy Government. He was approached by a representative of the International Rescue and Relief Committee who arranged for passage to America.

In this country he has been able to work again with great vigor and freedom. Museums in Chicago, New York and Worcester have bought his sculpture as well as many private collectors. The Brazilian Government has recently commissioned him to prepare sculptured decorations for a new Federal building in Rio de Janeiro.
FIGHTERS FOR A DEMOCRATIC WORLD

HANS HABE, Hungarian journalist and writer, active in France before the war. In September 1939, he joined the French Army as a volunteer, fought through the Battle of France, and was taken prisoner by the Germans in June 1940. Having managed with great difficulty to escape, he made his way through Southern France to Spain, and was one of the first men brought to this country by the International Rescue and Relief Committee in September 1940.

Since his arrival in America he has been one of the most active and imprinted authors of all the fascist enemy. His analysis of the collapse of the French Army, A Thousand Shall Fall (Harcourt Brace, 1941) was a best-seller. He lectured at West Point on army morale in the summer of 1941, and after Pearl Harbor was sent by United States Army officials to see three hundred camps to speak to our soldiers on The Nature of the Enemy. Subsequently he entered the American Army, and is at present a First Lieutenant on active duty in North Africa.

Hans Habe’s experience in the French Army, and in the subsequent civilian disillusionment under the Vichy regime, have given him a passionate conviction of the necessity for an honest appraisal of the enemy and an understanding of the principles of armistice. Summing up his experiences on the Maginot Line and in Flanders in 1940, he wrote, “The phrase ‘The French line’ was: ‘If we lost you beat a retreat to a commune’—It’s no good trying to understand. We tried to understand, and we did understand. Thus we were able to pray, with over-extended 1916 rifles, that tank- and bombing planes are not all-powerful and that there is something stronger than both: human beings.”

EMILIO LUSSU is the leader of the most important Italian democratic group in exile, the Giustizia e Libertà (Justice and Liberty) movement. When Mussolini first seized power, Lussu was a representative in the Chamber of Deputies of his native town in Sardinia. He refused to bow to Mussolini’s leadership and was eventually imprisoned on the island of Lipari. After a number of unsuccessful attempts, he and two other distinguished Italian anti-fascists, Carlo Rosselli and Fausto Nitti, escaped in a small boat to France. There they established the Giustizia e Libertà group, publishing a weekly newspaper of that name on which Lussu contributed regular articles.

When the Rosselli brothers were murdered by French fascists in Paris in 1937, Lussu succeeded to leadership of the group. He was in Paris when the Germans entered in June 1940, but escaped to southern France. A representative of the International Rescue and Relief Committee met him there; and together they succeeded in getting nearly all the members of the Giustizia e Libertà group safely out of France. The last to be sent out was Lussu himself. Traveling on false papers prepared for him by an agent of the Committee, he reached Lisbon in the summer of 1941 and there established new headquarters for his followers. Since then he has been actively engaged in organizing underground work in Italy, establishing in the establishment a short time ago of the Action Party, which has become the leading Italian Republican party today.

Other members of the Giustizia e Libertà group, who were evacuated from France with the help of the International Rescue and Relief Committee, have returned to Italy since the invasion of Sicily to engage in underground democratic activity. Lussu’s followers have taken the leadership in the mass sabotage movement of the Italian people against the German occupying forces; this group is the most effective force for active democratic leadership in Italy today.

FROM A FAMOUS LEADER OF THE FRENCH UNDERGROUND

November 15, 1942

The work accomplished by the International Rescue and Relief Committee during the past two and a half years will stand among the great feats of our generation. In this Committee, although faced with great difficulties, succeeded in bringing to America scores of intellectuals and democratic leaders, who found among you these four freedoms without which intelligent pursuit are impossible and life hardly worthwhile.

I for one will ever be grateful for having had my name placed on your first list of intellectuals to be brought here from France, although I could not accept the generous offer made to me then. The reasons for my refusal have since become clear.

As its work became known in France, our Committee achieved a second and equally important aim: it brought to a people deprived of all means of communication with the outside world, positive proof that democratic America was, as ever, to be found at the side of democratic France, ready to share in the united front against the forces that sought to overthrow the ideal of liberty, equality, fraternity.

THEY BRING

ERNESTINE FREUD, daughter-in-law of the great Sigmund Freud, is a famous speech therapist. Formerly a Professor of Speech Therapy at the University of Vienna, the Nazi invasion of Austria in 1938 caused her to emigrate to Paris where she continued her valuable work. Again in danger after the fall of France she moved southward and was finally helped through the efforts of the International Rescue and Relief Committee to come to this country with her daughter. Her husband was already at this time fighting with the British Army.

Immediately after her arrival in New York, Mrs. Freud took up her work for the treatment of deaf and stuttering children, and adults suffering from aphasia. Since the beginning of 1943 she has been attached to one of New York's great hospitals, where she restores speech to people who through operation or accident have lost their larynxes.

ALFREDO MENDIZABAL, distinguished Spanish philosopher and lawyer, was a Professor at the University of Oviedo. A Catholic and a democrat, his sympathies were strongly on the side of the Spanish workers and peasants, and opposed to their clerical and fascist oppressors. Deprived of his post, he sought asylum in France in 1937 where he organized the Spanish Committee for Civil Peace, working for reconciliation among Spaniards on the basis of withdrawal from that country of all foreign armies.

After the fall of France his democratic principles placed him in open opposition to the Vichy regime. Our Committee, trying to arrange for his evacuation, faced the impossibility of his safe transit through Spain since he had been condemned to fifteen years of exile by France. A long and difficult voyage via North Africa was finally completed in the Autumn of 1942.

GREAT GIFTS

FRANZ WERFEL, the greatest of Czech writers: novelist, poet and dramatist. Though long established in Europe, he was world famous in 1934 with his novel The Forty Days of Musa Dagh. This book was suppressed in Germany, owing to the latter opposition of the Nazi regime to its spirit of freedom and resistance to tyranny. In June 1940 Franz Werfel was in France and the German invasion placed him in great danger. Dispatches reaching this country in July 1940 mistakenly reported his capture and death at the hands of the Gestapo. Among the first acts of the representative of the International Rescue and Relief Committee on reaching France was to seek out Werfel, keep him in hiding, and arrange for his safe departure to America. Since his arrival he has published two best-sellers, Embattled Heaven and Song of Bernadette, the incomplete manuscript of which he brought with him from France.

FRITZ KAHN, a former Berlin physician, is a distinguished interpreter of medicine to the layman. His treatise on the Life of Man, a study of the structure and functions of the human body, published in 1930, was widely read. After Hitler came to power, the Nazis burned all available copies of this book and subsequently re-issued it in a pirated edition under a false name, with a spurious additional chapter on the physiological and mental superiority of the Nordic race. Dr. Kahn had meanwhile gone into exile in France. After Germany's conquest of France and the active anti-semitic campaign of the Vichy Government, Dr. Kahn sought the assistance of the International Rescue and Relief Committee to come to this country.

Here he has published a definitive work, Man In Structure and Function (Knopf, 1943), and has prepared a scientific history of Palestine to be published shortly by MacMillan.
FOUR MEN WHO Fought Hitler

Nicola Chiaromonte, an Italian writer, was active in the underground opposition to Mussolini. Eventually compelled to leave Italy, he went to Spain during the Civil War and fought in the Loyalist forces until their final defeat. After the outbreak of the second World War he broadcast from France to the democratic people of Italy. During the winter of 1940-41 he lived in hiding near Marseilles, and has written most recently of the Italian political situation in the pages of The New Republic.

Konrad Heiden has been the leading biographer and critic of Hitler and his methods, and of the entire Nazi philosophy, since the days of the Munich Beer-Hall Putsch in 1923. After Hitler’s seizure of power, Heiden was compelled to leave Germany. He was a leader in the underground activities in the Saar and later emigrated to France. In 1939 he enlisted in the French Army and took part in the retreat to the South. He was diligently sought by the German authorities under the terms of the Armistice. A representative of the International Rescue and Relief Committee arranged for his clandestine departure from France and safe passage to America.

In the last three years Heiden has prepared and completed what will undoubtedly prove to be the definitive study of Hitler, which Houghton Mifflin is now preparing for publication.

Jacques Hadamard, generally considered the world’s leading mathematician, has long been a distinguished figure in the world of science. Before the present war he had accepted four successive invitations to lecture at leading universities in America (including Yale, the University of Chicago, the Rice Institute of Houston, Lealand Stanford University and the University of Toronto). He was Professor at the Ecole Polytechnique of Paris and the Collège de France, and a member of the Académie des Sciences in Paris. These posts he relinquished after the Nazi invasion. He made his way to the south of France where the International Rescue and Relief Committee was fortunately able to arrange for his passage to America. Upon his arrival in this country, Dr. Hadamard was appointed Vice-President of the Ecole Libre des Hautes Études in New York. He also holds the position of visiting professor at Columbia University and has lectured in the past year at various universities including Harvard, Princeton and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Heinrich Mann, novelist, playwright and essayist, is one of the most important German literary figures of our day. Even more than his brother, Thomas Mann, he has spoken as an active internationalist and democrat for the last thirty years through his literary works and public denunciations. By his political satire, which struck at the most sacred beliefs of Nazism, and by his agitation for a United States of Europe, he early incurred the bitter hatred of the National Socialists. After Hitler seized power, Heinrich Mann sought asylum in France where he was trapped at the moment of the fall of the French Republic. In the autumn of 1940 he was smuggled across the French frontier by an agent of the International Rescue and Relief Committee and evacuated to the United States.

Among his better known works which have been translated into English are The Royal Woman, The Patsy, and Henry of Navarre.
A WORLD OF FREE MEN

This booklet can give only an indication of the variety of gifts which the refugees from Nazi-fascist oppression have brought to the service of world democracy. From distinguished artists and writers, through the ranks of lesser-known workers in every field, those whom we recall have continued active in the fight of free men opposed to the totalitarian conception of life. Men whom we saved are carrying on this fight in the most direct lines possible, in the armies of the United Nations. Of those en-corled in the United States Army, the majority were quickly selected for some branch of the service where their special knowledge of the enemy—his method, his language, or his terrain—will be of value. Others have placed their knowledge at the service of this country by giving technical aid in their own fields to the Office of War Information, the Office of Strategic Services, and other war agencies. These men must all remain anonymous until the final victory of democracy is won.

Some who are aiding our war effort in other ways can be named.
Such as Hans Cohnmann, a German chemist, now doing essential research in pharmacology; Helmut Wagner, former underground worker, now a skilled instrument maker in a war plant; Erwin Ackermann, a German physician engaged in medical research at Johns Hopkins; Marcel Verziuma, a Romanian physician working on the cure of shock in a great
New York hospital; and Maria Lowenstein, the widow of a famous German Social-Democrat, now a chemist in a defense factory.

Many are serving the community with distinction in other ways.
Charles Sterling, executer of painting at the Louvre, deprived of his post at the Musée de l'Orangerie by Vichy's anti-Semitic laws, is now curator at the Metropolitan Museum in New York. Hermann Kesten, German writer who worked indefatigably after his own recent to facilitate the escape of others, has recently completed a Study of Hitler; Walter Meh-ring has published The Life of Tchaikovsky; Leo Lania has written two books dealing with the political disintegration and collapse of pre-war Europe. The Darkest Hour and All Men Are Brothers; Josef Wittlin, Polish poet and winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature, has written Salt of the Earth, a novel analysing the conflicting racial and social groups in the old Austro-Hungarian Empire.

All these men have done service for years to the ideal that America is now fighting for—a free world for free men. In their hour of great danger they were saved from destruction by the help of those who shared their faith in freedom. Now, in the struggle for world democracy, they live again.

TO THOSE WHO STAND WITH US

Your generous support in the past has helped directly to strengthen the spirit of world democracy by saving the lives of its best leaders and defenders. For the next twelve months, the financial responsibility for our work has been guaranteed by the National War Fund. They have voted us a grant of $300,000 for the current year, which will enable us to carry on our mission of rescue uninterromptedly and to keep in constant touch with our friends in the European democratic underground movement.

I want to feel that I can continue to count on your sympathy and cooperation. Together we have begun a great work and accomplished much; I should like to let you know from time to time what is still being done. Will you show your continued interest by becoming a sustaining member of the International Rescue and Relief Committee and thus assuming a permanent place in this work of which you once were one of the founders?

Early one Sunday morning, about three years ago, I went down to the Battery to take the cutter that was going out to meet a boat that had just arrived from Europe. It was a little Portuguese ship named "The Nyassa", but it had suddenly become an important ship, for it was one of the few that could sail from Europe to bring to this country the art and artists and writers and culture whom the Nazis had put on their black lists to be killed. On the Nyassa that morning were Franz Werfel and Heinrich Mann. The United States was giving these and other men refuge from tyranny and death.

Below decks, as we were pulling alongside the Statue of Liberty, the passengers were lined up along the rail looking at the statue. As they stood there, the tears were streaming down their cheeks, and they were lifting their fingers to their lips and throwing kisses—kisses to a bronze statue. And parents lifted their little children so that they could throw their kisses, too.

Does this sound melodramatic? It was one of the most genuinely human moments that I have ever known. It was real. These men and women had walked for years with the shadow of tyranny pursuing them. They had not dared to talk out loud to each other lest someone hearing might report some word that could later be twisted into a charge of treason. They had not even dared to speak freely before their own children lest some innocently repeated word condemn them. These were parents who had not dared to smile at each other, and these were children who had never heard their parents laugh. And now—now they could shout and laugh, and speak and not be afraid—for this was America, these were American waters and American skies, and there was the Statue of Liberty to prove it.

These people had learned the sweetness of liberty because they had known the bitterness of tyranny. They had kisses for the Lady lifting her lamp because they had lived in black darkness.

This liberty is our country's noblest prize, and we can bring it tribute more substantial than the kisses of the refugees. TEARS FOR A BRONZE STATUE cannot maintain liberty—but War Bonds can. We must buy the bonds—bonds for Liberty, bside s for the love of America.

Dear Miss Eleanor Hoehn,

I am writing to express my appreciation for the assistance you have given to the International Rescue and Relief Committee. Your promptness and efficiency in handling the various requests for relief materials have been of great help to our efforts.

As you know, we are currently facing a critical shortage of medical supplies, particularly in the area of clothing and blankets. We have received a letter from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York dated August 27, 1945, informing us that our licenses for NY 66379-R and NY 66436-R had been revoked.

Unfortunately, this letter was not brought to our attention until last week, so that we did not have the opportunity to respond to it in time.

As we are planning to issue a new license, we are unable to proceed with the shipment of medical supplies scheduled for this week. However, we are working hard to resolve this issue as soon as possible.

I am writing to ask if you could obtain a letter of credit from the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to cover the costs associated with the shipment of the medical supplies. We would appreciate it if you could expedite this matter for us.

The situation with our license issue is extremely urgent, and I hope you will be able to assist us in obtaining the necessary letter of credit.

Thank you for your continued support and assistance.

Very sincerely,

MEMORANDUM FOR THE FILES

November 20, 1944

Subject: Revocation of NY 643665 and NY 643666 issued to International Rescue and Relief Committee, Inc., New York City.

NY 643665 issued September 9, 1944, permits the International Rescue and Relief Committee, Inc. to remit the Swiss Franc equivalent of $60,000 over a period of six months to a representative in Zurich, Switzerland, to finance a rescue and relief program in France and Northern Italy.

NY 643666 issued August 14, 1944, permits the International Rescue and Relief Committee, Inc. to remit the Swiss Franc equivalent of $50,000 for a period of six months to its representative in Avranches, France, for the relief of Spanish Republicans interned in France.

In view of the lifting of France from “enemy territory” with the amendment on November 4 to General Ruling No. 11, the International Rescue and Relief Committee, Inc. was informed through the War Refugee Board that funds to finance the activities of the International Rescue and Relief Committee, Inc. in France should be remitted directly to that country rather than through Switzerland. It was suggested, therefore, that the Committee file an application for a license to effect remittances directly to France whereupon the subject licenses would be revoked.

As license No. NY 643665 was issued in conjunction with license No. W-2138, which governs the financing of the Committee’s rescue operations in enemy or enemy occupied territory, Miss Strunsky, the Executive Secretary of the International Rescue and Relief Committee, Inc. was informed that this license would also be revoked. Miss Strunsky stated that at this time the Committee’s activities in Italy were being carried out only in the liberated areas of Italy. While agreeing that NY 643665 might be revoked at this time, Miss Strunsky requested that the Committee’s “basic” license (W-2138) be left to remain in effect as the Committee might wish to continue its activities in Northern Italy at a later date.

In the meantime, the Committee will remit funds directly to France to finance its activities there under the new license for which application was made under NY 660476.

Miss Florence Model,

War Refugees Board
Room 10
Main Treasury Building
Washington, D.C.

Dear Miss Model:

It was a great pleasure to have met you yesterday and to have encountered such warm and sympathetic an interest in our work. I have reported the content of our conversation to Dr. Kingdon and our Executive Committee and am requested by them to make a formal application for a license which would enable us to rescue anti-Nazi refugees from France and Northern Italy.

We hereby wish to request permission to send 50,000 over a period of 6 months to our representative in Switzerland, Mr. René Bertholet, 16 Wasserstrasse, Zurich, to enable him to effectuate the rescue and temporary relief of Jewish and non-Jewish refugees trapped in France and Northern Italy.

Mr. Bertholet, a Swiss citizen, would personally handle the work in France with the assistance of members of our French staff who remained in France after the total occupation of that country. Mr. Bertholet has represented our organization for 5 years, is thoroughly acquainted with the refugees whom we wish to rescue and enjoys the complete confidence of our committee.

The rescue of endangered anti-Fascists trapped in Northern Italy would be handled by Mr. Giuseppe Codiglioni, Chemin Krieg, Geneva, a very outstanding Italian labor leader who is well-known in this
