ANNA ROOSEVELT HALSTED

1906 - 1975

Biographical Sketch

Anna Roosevelt Halsted was born on May 3, 1906, the eldest child and only daughter of the five children of Franklin D. and Eleanor Roosevelt. After her 1924 graduation from Miss Chapin's school, she attended a short course at Cornell University in the forestry school.

On June 5, 1926, she married Curtis Bean Dall. They had two children, Anna Eleanor Dall, known as Sistie, born March 25, 1927, and Curtis Roosevelt Dall, known as Buzzie, born April 19, 1930.

Between 1932 and 1934, Anna was associate editor of a magazine called Babies Just Babies, hosted a radio program sponsored by the Best and Company Department Store, contributed articles to Liberty magazine and wrote two children's books, Scamper and Scamper's Christmas.

The Dalls were divorced July 30, 1934. Anna married Clarence John Boettiger on January 18, 1935. Their son, John Roosevelt Boettiger, was born March 30, 1939.

From December 1936 to September 1943, Anna was an associate editor and columnist of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. Her husband was the editor of this Hearst publication. In 1943, she went to the White House to serve as an unofficial secretary to her father, President Roosevelt. Her responsibilities included answering mail, assisting with social functions, arranging appointments, and writing presidential speeches. In addition, Anna mapped out the President's itineraries during the 1944 campaign and accompanied him to the Yalta Conference in February 1945.

After President Roosevelt's death, she and John Boettiger bought a weekly newspaper in Phoenix, Arizona, renamed it the Arizona Times and rapidly increased its circulation. By May 1947, it was a daily paper. Anna was executive editor and columnist until February 1948 when she became editor and publisher. The paper was sold in July and by September 1948 Anna and her mother were co-hosting an American Broadcasting Company radio program, The Eleanor and Anna Roosevelt Program, which was discontinued in September 1949.

In 1949, Anna also edited The Woman, a monthly magazine, to which she contributed a series of articles entitled My Life with F.D.R. The Boettigers were divorced August 1, 1949.

Anna contracted coccidiomycosis in 1949 and curtailed her activities for several years to convalesce from the disease.

On November 11, 1952, Anna married Dr. James A. Halsted, a doctor with the Veterans Administration. She entered the public relations field in labor unions, working for Union Service, Inc. in Los Angeles during 1953 and 1954. In the fall of 1954, she entered the U.C.L.A. School of Social Work. The Halsteds moved to Syracuse, New York, in the fall of 1955. In October, Anna was hired as the assistant to the Director of Public Relations at the State University Upstate Medical Center in Syracuse. In April 1957, she became the Director of Public Relations and Assistant to the Dean, a position she held until her resignation in September 1958 when the Halsteds traveled to Iran.

In Shiraz, Iran, Dr. Halsted helped to set up the Pahlavi University Medical School. Anna did public relations and administrative work as well as organizing the journals sections of the medical library.

Upon their return from Iran in the summer of 1960, the Halsteds moved to Lexington, Kentucky, where Anna was a Staff Assistant to the Dean of the University of Kentucky Medical Center. A year later, the Halsteds moved to Birmingham, Michigan, a suburb of Detroit. Anna became the public relations director and coordinator at Metropolitan Hospital for the Comprehensive Medical Care Program sponsored by the United Auto Workers. In 1963, she became the Director of Public Relations for the Wayne State University School of Medicine in Detroit.

In October 1963, she was appointed by President Kennedy to the Citizen's Advisory Council on the Status of Women. She resigned from the Council in January 1968. In February, she was appointed vice-chairman of the President's Commission for the Observance of Human Rights Year 1968.

The Halsteds moved to Washington, D.C., in 1964. While there, Mrs. Halsted was a volunteer with the Washington Work and Training Opportunity Center and a board member of Americans for Democratic Action and the Capitol Area Division of the United Nations Association of the United States of America.

She became chairman of the board of the National Committee of Household Employment and a board member of Wiltwyck School as well as an ex-officio board member of the Eleanor Roosevelt Foundation.

In 1971, Dr. and Mrs. Halsted retired to a cottage in Hillside, New York, which they had acquired in 1966. Anna Halsted continued to remain active in many of the above-mentioned organizations until her death.

Anna Roosevelt Halsted died of cancer on Monday, December 1, 1975, at Montifiore Hospital, in New York City.

A Description of the Collection

These papers are arranged alphabetically with subject files and personal correspondence interfiled. Correspondence with women is interfiled by their last name at the time of Mrs. Halsted's death. As Curtis Roosevelt Dall legally changed his name to Curtis Roosevelt, his files will be found under Roosevelt, Curtis.

Mrs. Halsted's papers contain voluminous files, both subject and correspondence, concerning her parents. There are over 800 letters, mostly holograph, from Mrs. Roosevelt to Anna, dealing principally with Roosevelt family matters, Mrs. Roosevelt's activities and interests, White House events 1933-1945, and personal and public concerns of Anna. Mrs. Roosevelt returned her daughter's letters to her at Anna's request.

The Eleanor Roosevelt subject files contain correspondence, minutes of meetings, annual reports, tributes, memorials, programs, addresses, articles, speeches, newspaper and magazine clippings and other printed materials. There is correspondence, speech and article material relating to Mrs. Roosevelt both before and after her death, with most of the material post dating 1962 and consisting of copies of her itineraries, broadcasts, articles, speeches and My Day columns as well as letters from Martha Gellhouse, A. David Gurewitsch, Lizzie McDuffie, Esther Lape, Maureen Corr and Earl Miller.

Files relating to Franklin D. Roosevelt contain correspondence between Anna and her father as well as addresses, articles, essays, clippings, memorials, notes, poems, press releases, programs and other printed materials. Tributes and memorials to F.D.R. are in the form of poems, speeches, essays, articles and printed materials from memorial programs. There are also clippings, press releases, correspondence and programs from 1939-1945 relating to White House activities, including a few memoranda from the President.

There are files relating to memorials built to Franklin D. Roosevelt and movies and plays about his life including Sunrise at Campobello, and the A.B.C. TV series F D R. These files contain business correspondence, including Roosevelt family letters on contracts, royalties and tax matters.

Family members with whom Anna corresponded, besides her parents, include her grandmother, Sara Delano Roosevelt, her husband, James A. Halsted, her previous husbands, Curtis Dall and John Boettiger, her children, Anna Eleanor Dall Seagraves, Curtis Roosevelt and John Boettiger and her brothers, James, Elliott, Franklin and John Roosevelt. In addition, there are letters written by Anna's maternal grandfather, Elliott Roosevelt, and her step children Bella, Charles, Thomas and Elinor Halsted.

There are also correspondence files from Franklin Roosevelt's Governorship papers and the President's Secretary's File relating to Anna Roosevelt, Curtis Dall, John Boettiger and their children, and to Kermit Roosevelt, son of Theodore Roosevelt. These files were probably given to Anna during her stay in the White House between 1943 and 1945.

Correspondence with Malvina Thompson, Eleanor Roosevelt's personal secretary, contains items relating to Roosevelt family activities.

Other correspondents of note include James MacGregor Burns, George T. Bye, Maureen Corr, Howard Costigan, Jonathan Daniels, Stephen Early, Mrs. Simeon (Nan-Nan) Estigoy, Mrs. Sam (Astrid) Fisher, June and Joseph Gordon, David and Maude Gray, Lucille Griswold, Jay Groen, David and Edna Gurewitsch, Gabriele Gutkind, Averell Harriman, William Hassett, Lorena Hickok, Nan Honeyman, Nannine Joseph, William Mackenzie King, Walter Kirschner, Esther Lape, Joseph and Trude Lash, King Olav, Charles F. Palmer, Justine Wise Polier, June Hamilton Rhodes, Samuel Rosenman, Arthur M. Schlesinger, Jr., Elizabeth Shoumatoff, Adlai E. Stevenson, Margaret Suckley, Harry S Truman and Grace Tully.

The subject files contain materials relating to her places of residence, jobs, organizations, radio programs, speeches, articles and clippings. Activities and organizations of interest to Mrs. Halsted include American Civil Liberties Union, Eleanor Roosevelt Cancer Foundation, Inc., Eleanor Roosevelt Institute, Eleanor Roosevelt Memorial Foundation, Franklin D. Roosevelt Library, Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial Foundation, Franklin D. Roosevelt Warm Springs Memorial Commission, Human Rights Commission, Interdepartmental Committee on the Status of Women, National Committee on Household Employment, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Inc., National Foundation March of Dimes, National Youth Administration, Office of Economic Opportunity, President's Commission on the Status of Women, United Nations Association, United World Federalists, Wiltwyck School, Work and Training Opportunity Center and the Yalta Conference.

The collection contains correspondence, articles, speeches, drafts, columns, notes, printed materials and clippings relating to Mrs. Halsted's speeches and articles. Included are articles and drafts for Liberty, Cosmopolitan, Today, columns from the Arizona Times and speeches given in Seattle, Phoenix, Los Angeles and Syracuse as well as speeches about Iran and Middle East.

Personal items in the collection include Anna's diary for 1925, appointment diaries, Anna's baby book and an engagement and wedding gift book of Eleanor Roosevelt and Anna Roosevelt Dall.
