ROOSEVELT, FRANKLIN D.

HUDSON RIVER VALLEY
and
DUTCHESS COUNTY MANUSCRIPT COLLECTION
ca. 1540 to ca. 1952

Introduction

The Hudson River Valley and Dutchess County Manuscript Collection had its origin in Franklin D. Roosevelt's manuscript collection and in his desire that his Library should become a center for the study of the history of its region. Roosevelt's manuscript collection -- in which two other of the Library's collections, the Naval History Manuscript Collection and the Historical Manuscript Collection, also had their origins -- was the consequence of four decades of active, if sporadic, collecting. After the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library was established in 1939, several dozen small manuscript collections were given to the President and the Library and were added to the Hudson River Valley and Dutchess County Manuscript Collection. Most of these donations were made prior to Roosevelt's death, though additions have been received in a small but steady flow over the years and the collection has not yet ceased to grow.

The collection consists of correspondence, diaries, genealogical notebooks, account ledgers, indentures, receipts and other business papers, scrapbooks and printed material, and a miscellany of other manuscript types relating to the history of the Hudson Valley, and particularly of Dutchess County, in the period ca. 1540 to ca. 1952. Most of the material concerns the period 1750 to 1875, though there is a considerable representation for the succeeding seventy-five year period. A sizable body of ledgers, daybooks and other business papers and church records describes certain aspects of life in Hyde Park in the first half of the twentieth century. Most of the papers deal with business activities, but there are as well personal correspondence and diaries, and notebooks containing genealogical information. The papers also contain the records of the Mid-Hudson Regional Committee on the Conservation of Cultural Resources, 1941-43, and the Works Progress Administration's Inventory of Dutchess County Records, which was prepared in ca. 1937-38.

The collection is arranged in a single subject file, with materials in an approximate alphabetical order, with the exception of the Inventory of Dutchess County Records and a fragmentary item index, which are placed following the alphabetical run. There are three appendices to the finding aid. The first describes several collections of papers, microfilms of which are in the Library's custody, which are complementary to the Hudson River Valley and Dutchess County Manuscript Collection. The second describes the maps of Dutchess County which were in Roosevelt's collection but which the Library, following his precedent, has kept separate from the manuscripts. The third is a calendar of the documents held in the folder "Miscellaneous Hudson Valley and Dutchess County Manuscripts."

Oversized materials which are filed separately from their appropriate folders are represented, in every instance, by cross reference sheets placed in these folders. If a researcher wishes to see an item listed in such a cross reference, he should request it of the archivist on duty in the research room.

HUDSON RIVER VALLEY AND DUTCHESS COUNTY MANUSCRIPT COLLECTION:

THE MICROFILM COLLECTION

APPENDIX I

HUDSON RIVER VALLEY AND DUTCHESS COUNTY MANUSCRIPT COLLECTION:
THE MICROFILM COLLECTION

The microfilm collection consists of films of manuscripts relating to the history of Dutchess County and the Hudson River Valley which have been neither donated to nor deposited in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library. The several manuscript collections which compose the microfilm collection belong, in every case but one, to local families, churches, historical societies and agencies of government. For the purposes of description, each of the microfilmed collections has been regarded as a series, and, where appropriate, a breakdown into hypothesized files has been provided. The brief series descriptions which follow define the types, chronological spans, and approximate volumes of the material within the series, and, in several cases, provide information about its content. The notes beginning "filed under..." placed within brackets and directly following several roll titles, give the titles under which these rolls are filed within the Library's general microfilm collection. The researcher should use this bracketed title -- which is provided only when the file title is different than the one used in this finding aid -- when requesting the microfilm reels.

With the exception of the Aldrich Family Papers, which require the permission of a family member as a condition of access, the microfilms are available to researchers without restriction.

1. Aldrich Family Papers, 1770-1895 (one roll)

The collection consists of circa 200 items, most of which deal with the career of John Armstrong (1758-1843), soldier, diplomat, politician, and farmer. Although born in Pennsylvania, Armstrong became a Red Hook, Dutchess County, resident after his marriage in 1789 to Alida Livingston, the sister of Chancellor Robert R. Livingston. He served as United States Senator from the State of New York from 1801 to February, 1802, and from November, 1803 to June, 1804, as United States Minister to France from 1804 to 1810, and as Secretary of War from February, 1813 to September, 1814. Correspondents include George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, James Madison, James Monroe, Lafayette, Kosciuszko, Talleyrand, Robert R. Livingston, Cornwallis, Martin Van Buren, Albert Gallatin, George Clinton, Lewis Livingston, and Edward Livingston. Over half of the material deals with Armstrong's French ministry. A few items are to Armstrong's father, John Armstrong (1720-95). The papers are unarranged. Access to the papers is restricted; the permission of one of the collection's owners is required prior to its use. Citations to the collection are to read as follows: "From the Rokeby Collection, Barrytown, Dutchess County, New York, courtesy of Richard Aldrich and others." The Library microfilmed the papers in 1966 for the National Historical Publications Commission; it received a positive copy of the microfilm from the Commission in 1972.

2. Bard Family Papers, 1658-1899 (one roll)

The series consists of 220 items, including business papers, family and personal correspondence, deeds, genealogical notes and charts, and a circa 1705 map of Hyde Park. The papers are divided into six groups, as follows:

1. Peter Bard, 1679-1734 (18 items)
2. Dr. John Vincent Bard, 1716-1799 (80 items)
3. Dr. Samuel Bard, 1742-1821 (34 items)
4. William Bard, 1778-1853 (40 items)
5. Other Bard Family members, 1693-1899 (33 items)
6. Miscellaneous, 1658-1892 (15 items)

3. DuBois Family Papers, circa 1804-60 [ filed under DuBois-Freer Family Papers] (one roll)

The papers consist principally of about 100 items of correspondence to and from Cornelius DuBois, a member of the New York State Legislature in the 1840s. Subjects discussed include travel to the western territories and on the Great Lakes in the 1830s and 1840s; politics at Albany and Washington; schooling at the Red Hook Academy; and the diurnal concerns of home, health and life in Dutchess County. The Library microfilmed the papers, with the permission of the Freer family of Hyde Park, in July, 1953.

4. Dutchess County Supervisors' Records, 1718-79 (three rolls)

These are the earliest known records of the Supervisors and Assessors of Dutchess County. They contain tax lists, election records, records of meetings, court records, and the records of the building of the first "County House and prison," and of the establishment of the Courts of Common Pleas and General Sessions. They contain, besides the regular records of the Supervisors and Assessors, such things as wills, apprentices' contracts, registrations of animal branding marks, lists of roads, and bills for miscellaneous services provided to the County.

The records are in eight volumes, marked A, B, C, E, F, G, H, and I. The volumes as lettered are arranged in chronological order. Volumes A and B and extracts from Volume C have been published by the Vassar Brothers Institute of Poughkeepsie, New York. Volume D has long been missing.

The records are arranged on three microfilm rolls as follows:

- Roll 1: Volume A, 1718-22 (ca. 72 pages)
Volume B, 1722-47 (ca. 190 pages)

The papers are on four rolls of microfilm, one prepared in 1943, and the remaining three in 1975. While the first roll is arranged for the most part chronologically and within three clearly defined files, the other three rolls are unarranged except within sometimes cryptic file headings (such as "LH Collection," or "Perry Le Fevre Collection, from things at Simon LeFevre's farm").
