POLITICAL PAPERS OF FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, 1910-1913.

The papers in this group (~~14~~ cu. ft.) relate to the political career of Franklin D. Roosevelt between October 1910, when he was nominated as Democratic candidate for the New York State Senate, 26th District (Putnam, Dutchess, and Columbia Counties) and March 1913, when he resigned during his second term to become Assistant Secretary of the Navy. In type and form the records consist of correspondence, a diary, original drafts and copies of speeches, invitations, legislative proposals (bills and resolutions), newspapers and newspaper clippings, pamphlets, campaign material, and other related papers. The great majority of these papers deal with some phase of his public life, but occasional letters pertain to his family and other personal affairs. The records divide into the following sub-groups:

(A) Correspondence and other papers relating to some particular subject such as speaking invitations, speaking engagements, election campaigns, legislative business, the "insurgency" movement in the New York State legislature against Tammany bossism, the New York City Charter, and the New York State Wilson Conference in behalf of Woodrow Wilson as Democratic candidate for President; and correspondence with Democratic political leaders, constituents, friends, and others pertaining to a great variety of political subjects. The correspondence consists of incoming letters and telegrams, and copies of the outgoing letters. (36 boxes).

- (B) A diary by Franklin D. Roosevelt of his first days in Albany, Jan. 1-3, 1911. (1 Vol.)
- (C) Speeches and public statements of Franklin D. Roosevelt made during the course of his campaigns and while a member of the New York State Senate. Among these are 4 drafts of reading copies in longhand, three photostatic copies of speeches acquired in a later period; 8 typewritten transcripts taken from the Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Evening Enterprise, Poughkeepsie News Press, Hudson (N. Y.) Evening Register, and the Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier; and 234 entries of summaries of addresses and other public statements, 1910-1913, contained in Calendar of Speeches and Other Public Statements, 1910 -1920(160 p.)
- (D) Newspaper material present in this group includes 73 issues of newspapers, most of them from the Poughkeepsie, N. Y. press, 1910-1913, and a substantial quantity of mounted and unmounted clippings, 1910-1913, all carrying items about Franklin D. Roosevelt, the full text or excerpts from some of his speeches, accounts of his work in the Senate, and reference to his political activities in the Democratic party generally. (³2 vols., and 11 boxes).
- (E) Miscellaneous printed materials include (1) a microfilm copy of the bills and resolutions introduced into the New York State Senate by Franklin D. Roosevelt; ⁽²⁾ printed copies of various legislative measures, including a few of the proposals sponsored by Roosevelt on banking, taxation, conservation, highways, agriculture, hospitals, and labor;

(3) pamphlets and periodicals, some of them published by New York State agencies, containing reports and other types of information on conservation, primary elections, education, labor, agriculture, and other political and social problems in which Franklin D. Roosevelt was interested; and (4) a small amount of campaign literature consisting of pictorial posters, handbills, and leaflets. Among these are items containing biographical sketches of Franklin D. Roosevelt, statements about his political record, and information about other candidates. 4 boxes. 1 roll of microfilm.

FOREWORD

This first of a series of descriptive inventories in preparation by the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library constitutes a detailed guide to one of the Library's 35 manuscript collections. As a finding aid to archival material, it represents an attempt at a comprehensive analysis and index, within the covers of a ^{one} single publication, of a single integrated group of historical manuscripts. The normal level of detail in each analytical entry is the individual file or folder of correspondence rather than the more detailed approach of an item-by-item "calendar," at one extreme, or the less detailed "series inventory," at the other extreme. The entries in the present inventory were prepared under the supervision of Dr. Martin P. Claussen by Dr. Carl L. Spicer, assisted by Mrs. Kathryn C. Fell; the index, by Mrs. Fell; and the introduction, by Dr. Claussen.

In addition to descriptive inventories, the Library's publication program also includes a general guide to the Library's collections (in preparation), calendars of selected manuscripts and other documents, bibliographies of printed materials, descriptive catalogs of pictorial and museum materials, and microfilm and printed editions of texts in the collections.

INTRODUCTION

The collection of correspondence and related papers inventoried and indexed below was accumulated by Franklin D. Roosevelt between October 1910, when he was nominated as Democratic candidate for New York State Senator from the 26th District (Columbia, Dutchess, and Putnam Counties), and March 1913, when he resigned, during his second term as Senator, to become Assistant Secretary of the Navy in President Woodrow Wilson's administration. During his career in the State Senate, FDR was chairman of the Forest, Fish, and Game Committee, 1911-12; Chairman of the Agriculture Committee, 1913; a member, at various times, of the Agriculture, Canals, Codes, Conservation, Military Affairs, and Railroads Committees; a member of a special committee investigating the New York City Police Department, 1912-13; and sponsor of about 75 bills and resolutions, mostly on conservation matters and election reforms. In 1911, furthermore, FDR was one of the leaders of the Democratic "insurgents" who fought the Tammany Hall Democrats in the Legislature over the nomination and election of a United States Senator for New York; and in 1912 he was prominent in the Empire State Democracy organization and in the New York

State Wilson Conference in connection with pre-convention activities on behalf of Woodrow Wilson as Democratic candidate for President. All of these matters, as well as FDR's own election campaigns in 1910 and 1912, his patronage activities involving chiefly his own district, 1911-13, and miscellaneous items of Senatorial business, are documented in the papers described below.

The papers, comprising group no. 8 of the collections in the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library, ^{amount} ~~extend in bulk~~ to about 8 cubic feet, ^{contained in} ~~or~~ 36 document containers, and are organized into 385 files or folders of correspondence, except for one file (see entry no. 2), which is a bound volume. These 385 files are divided into 19 general subject files, 38 legislative subject files, and 328 name files; each of these three major series is preceded, below, by a brief introductory statement as to its general character and content. Originally, when these papers were acquired by the Roosevelt Library from FDR (in 1942), the papers formed part of a larger collection extending to 1921, and in 1943 the Senatorial papers were withdrawn and arranged into about 10 subject files and about 800 name files. The files were ^{at that time} ~~in turn~~ reorganized into their present pattern, ^{in 1948} in the course of preparing this inventory, so as to consolidate the less significant name files into a smaller number of subject files, and to ^{include} ~~integrate~~ occasional fugitive letters found in other collections in the Library.

Each of the 385 files is described below in an inventory entry which contains the following kinds of information for the guidance of the searcher: inventory control number, an arbitrary serial number used for purpose of shelving, reference, citation, and indexing; file title or file heading; inclusive dates, expressed in months and years; physical bulk, expressed in linear inches or, if less than half an inch, in number of items; and a summary of the subject content of the file. Each summary normally names and identifies the significant persons, institutions, topics, and places mirrored in the file, and occasionally cites such documents as are individually noteworthy. In the course of the subject analysis of these files, a number of published reference tools have been used by the compilers, and these tools provide an additional frame of reference useful for future users of this collection of papers. These reference works include, notably the [New York] Legislative Record, 1911-12; the New York Legislative Index, 1913; the New York Senate Journal, 1911-13; the New York Legislative Record and Index, 1913; the [New York State] Legislative Manual, 1910-13; the New York Red Book, 1910-13; the Who's Who in America, 1910-11, 1912, 13; Who's Who in New York (City and State), 1911-12, 1913-14; and the New York Times Index, 1913-14. ~~These and other books, pamphlets, and related printed material bearing on FDR as New York State Senator are in the course of being selected and listed in a cumulative bibliography of FDR and his times, in preparation at the Roosevelt Library:~~

The alphabetical index at the end of this volume (pp. 109-148 [of the typescript]) is a composite index to all the persons, institutions, topics, and places mentioned in the inventory. The index numbers refer to inventory control numbers, not to pages. Since the subject references throughout the inventory are necessarily selective, the index, likewise, is equally selective, and excludes occasional minor subjects, appearing in the papers themselves, that have been ignored in the course of preparing this inventory.

While the present collection contains all of the known papers accumulated by FDR as State Senator, ^{this is not to be taken as} ~~that is not to~~ ^{mean} say that there are not gaps in the historical record contained in the collection. Thus, FDR, like most other persons, did not always record every significant transaction in which he was involved. ^{Thus,} For example, his correspondence with such leaders as Governor John A. Dix of New York, Governor Woodrow Wilson (and Presidential candidate) of New Jersey, Robert F. Wagner, and Alfred E. Smith seems fragmentary. Nor did FDR ^{he received} ~~apparently~~ keep every single letter from every constituent. Gaps, where they have been discovered, are mentioned in the entries below, partly for the guidance of students and partly to suggest areas in which the Roosevelt Library is interested in acquiring missing items and related items in order to complete the historical record contained in this collection.

^{In addition to} ~~Outside of~~ FDR's Senatorial papers ^{there} are other collections in the Roosevelt Library that are closely related in subject ^{Covering this period} matter and research interest, ^{to the present collection.} Thus, FDR's business papers, his family correspondence, and ^{his} papers on ~~other~~ non-political and non-legislative subjects, 1910-13, are for the most part in another collection--group no. 14, entitled Papers of Franklin D. Roosevelt Relating to Family, Business, and Other Personal Affairs, 1882-1945. ~~Next,~~ there are the several other groups of FDR's correspondence, covering the later periods of his career, 1913-45 (groups no. 9 to 13), which contain occasional letters, for the most part not yet specifically identified, that contain historical references to events and situations that transpired in the earlier period 1910-13. Another collection in the Library--the papers of Louis McHenry Howe (group no. 36)--contains a small file of Howe's correspondence for October 1912, when he served as campaign manager in FDR's reelection campaign of 1912. ~~Next,~~ ^{Again,} there are important items in the Library's non-manuscript collections (group no. 1 to 5), notably newspaper clippings collected by FDR, photographs, and museum objects, which relate ~~importantly~~ to FDR and public affairs between 1910 and 1913 and which, in subject matter, complement the material to be found in the manuscript collections. Finally, there are manuscript collections outside the Roosevelt Library that are important for this period of FDR's career; ~~information as to the whereabouts and general character of such collections is being entered in the cumulative "Union List of Manuscript Collections Relating to FDR and His Times," in preparation at the Roosevelt Library.~~

FDR's Senatorial papers, as well as some of the other collections in the Roosevelt Library, are available for use in the Library's search rooms at Hyde Park by qualified students, under regulations prescribed by the Archivist of the United States. Photostat and microfilm copies of items in the collections may be purchased at cost by interested persons on application to the Library.

PAPERS OF FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT
AS NEW YORK STATE SENATOR, 1911 - 1913

General Subject Files

Each of the 19 "general subject files" described below is either ~~general~~ ^{pertinent} to FDR's entire Senatorial career or pertains to a major subject or aspect of Senatorial affairs (other than legislation, the files on which are in his "Legislative Files," nos. 20 to 57 below). Thus, the "Speeches by FDR" file (file no. 1) is of general significance to his entire career, and his various patronage files (files no. 14 to 16) pertain to a major non-legislative aspect of FDR's Senatorial business. Rarely, however, ~~for a given subject of this kind~~ will the searcher find all of FDR's existing correspondence ~~on a~~ ^{particular subject} in the ~~corresponding~~ ^{pertinent} "subject" file, ~~below~~. ~~Thus, other corre-~~ spondence, on the same subject ~~but with other persons,~~ is likely to appear, ~~instead,~~ in one of the "Name Files" (file nos. 58 to 385 below), ~~filed~~ under the name of a political leader with whom FDR had a continuing correspondence not only on that subject but on others as well. For a guide to the related subject correspondence in the ~~letter~~ "Name Files," ^{the user of this inventory should} consult the appropriate subject entries in the index at the end of this inventory.

Box 1 1. Speeches by FDR. Oct. 1910 - May 1912. 10 items.

Manuscripts (longhand and typewritten) of a few of FDR's speeches and public statements. These and others not present in this file are described in RL Calendar of Franklin D. Roosevelt's Speeches and Other Public Statements, October 1910 - March 1913 (Typescript. viii, 40 pp. Oct. 1948).

2. Diary of FDR. Jan. 1-3, 1911. 1 volume.

Entries include descriptions of the Roosevelt residence in Albany, the Governor's inaugural ceremonies, a reception for constituents, the first Democratic caucus, and FDR's commentaries on Democratic leadership and party problems.

3. Speaking Invitations. Jan. 1911 - Feb. 1913. 2 inches.

Invitations to FDR to speak at political and civic gatherings, replies accepting or declining invitations, and related correspondence pertaining to arrangements for some of FDR's speeches during the Senatorship period. Among the groups that invited FDR were the Saturn Club, Buffalo (Feb. 1911); Insurgents Club, New York City (April 1911); Legislative Correspondents Association, Albany (April 1911, March 1912); St. Stephen's College, Annandale (June 1911); Intercollegiate Civic Club, New York City (April 1912); and the Employers Club, Poughkeepsie (Feb. 1913). Organizations outside New York represented here are the Hope Congregational Church, Springfield, Mass. (March 1911) and the Wilson - Ferris League, Bay City, Mich. (Feb. 1913).

4. Miscellaneous Invitations. Dec. 1910 - Jan. 1913. $\frac{1}{2}$ in.

FDR's correspondence, chiefly with State officials, political leaders, and constituents, regarding invitations other than speaking invitations, to attend dinners, dedicatory ceremonies, reunions, Memorial Day parades, and other political and civic gatherings. A few invitations to membership in fraternal organizations are also included. Among the organizations represented are the Civic League of Albany (in connection with ~~the~~ Welcoming William Jennings Bryan to Albany in May 1911), the National Democratic Club, the Saratoga Battle Monument Dedication Commission, and various church groups.

5. Miscellaneous Interviews. March 1911 - March 1913. 15 items.

Letters to FDR from people seeking interviews and asking for appointments with him to discuss various political and personal matters, and FDR's replies to some of them, mostly routine acknowledgments and others arranging for appointment dates. Summaries of the conversations are rarely present.

6. FDR's Albany Residences. Nov. 1910 - Jan. 1913. 7 items.

FDR's correspondence (apparently incomplete) pertaining to the leasing of apartments and houses in Albany.

Bx 5.1-2 7. U. S. Senatorship Issue. Jan.- April 1911. 7 inches.

Correspondence, mostly letters to FDR from constituents and political leaders, relating to the FDR's leadership of the Democratic "insurgents" in the State Legislature in ~~blocking~~^{opposing} the move of the Tammany Hall Democrats to nominate William F. Sheehan as U.S. Senator from New York. Included are letters supporting FDR's stand; a petition, favoring Sheehan, from the Democratic City Committee of Poughkeepsie, of which John J. Mylod was chairman; petitions and endorsements on behalf of the candidacy of James A. O'Gorman, State Supreme Court Justice, Edward M. Shepard, Democratic leader in Brooklyn, and Theodore Sutro, tax attorney supported by the German-American Alliance of New York; a list of the members of the State ^{wide} (??) Democratic League indicating, for each, his choice for Senator; and pamphlets bearing on the controversy.

Box 2 8. New York State Wilson Conference. April - June 1912. 1 inch.

Includes correspondence and papers pertaining to the New York State Wilson Conference, of which FDR was Chairman, organized to support Woodrow Wilson^{for President} at the forthcoming Democratic National Convention at Baltimore. Present also are invitations sent by FDR to prominent Democrats in New York State to attend an organization meeting in New York City in April 1912.

9. Empire State Democracy. July - Aug. 1912. 1½ in.

Papers relating to the organization and work of the Empire State Democracy, of which FDR was Temporary Chairman, established to support Woodrow Wilson for President and to nominate anti-Tammany candidates for State and local offices in the 1912 elections. Included are letters and telegrams from various independent Democrats and Republicans supporting the movement; invitations to meetings in New York City on July 17th and 29th, 1912; and resolutions outlining the aims and purposes of the movement and excerpts from minutes of meetings. Only two letters by FDR are present.

Box³
10. Election Campaign of 1910. Oct. 1910 - Jan. 1911. 1 in.

Correspondence and other papers relating to FDR's campaign for State Senator, Oct. - Nov. 1910, chiefly letters to FDR by supporters and precinct workers in his District, lists of enrolled voters in Putnam County, election returns from Dutchess County, and FDR's canceled checks, Oct. 10, 1910-Jan 10, 1911, mostly for campaign expenses.

11. Re-Election campaign of 1912. Jan. 1912 - March 1913. 3 in.

Correspondence and papers pertaining to FDR's campaign for re-election as State Senator, Sept.-Nov. 1912. Included are FDR's certificate of nomination and election as New York State Senator (Sept. 26, 1912, and Dec. 16, 1912); congratulatory messages; data relating to expense accounts; information on campaign contributions; lists of voters; list of delegates to the New York State Democratic Convention; and and canceled checks signed by John M. Ham, treasurer of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Committee, Nov. 4-~~Nov.~~ 25, 1912.

Other papers relating to the campaign are filed with the papers of Louis McHenry Howe (group 36), who conducted most of the campaign during FDR's illness.

12. Civil Service Appointments. Jan. 1911 - Jan. 1913. $\frac{1}{2}$ in.

Chiefly requests from constituents and others for information as to appointments and promotions in the State Civil Service, and, in a few cases, in ^{the} Federal Civil Service.

13. Insurance Brokers' Licenses. April 1911 - Jan. 1912.

8 items.

Letters from constituents and others asking FDR to help them secure licenses from the State Department of Insurance; and FDR's replies.

14. Notary Public Appointments. Jan. 1911 - Jan. 1912. 1 in.

Applications from constituents, endorsements, and related correspondence in regard to notary public appointments.

Box 4 15. Postmaster Endorsements. Feb. 1911 - March 1913. 1 in.

Letters, mostly from constituents, endorsing candidates for postmaster vacancies in the 26th District, chiefly in Millerton and Staatsburg, N.Y.; and FDR's replies.

16. Miscellaneous Patronage Matters. Dec. 1910 - March 1913.
2 in.

Endorsements, recommendations, and related correspondence dealing with patronage matters, especially in FDR's home district. Appointments sought by Dutchess, Putnam, and Columbia County constituents include factory inspectors, game protectors, highway patrolmen, labor foremen, tax collectors, and clerkships in the State Legislature. Also represented are the positions of Health Officer for the Port of New York, involving Dr. William T. Jenkins and Joseph J. O'Connell (Feb. 1911, March 1912); Public Service Commissioner, 1st District, involving Robert W. Boeing (March 1912); and State Health Commissioner, involving Dr. Charles E. North (Feb. 1913).

17. Plattsburgh Commemoration Committee. March 1912 - March 1913. $\frac{1}{2}$ in.

FDR's correspondence as Chairman of the Plattsburgh Commemoration Committee, regarding appropriations and other matters pertaining to celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Plattsburgh and Lake Champlain. Includes correspondence with State Senator James^{A.} Emerson, a member of the Committee, and letters of support from the Daughters of the American Revolution chapter in Plattsburgh, from other local organizations in Plattsburgh, and from the General Society of the War of 1812 in Philadelphia. See also Name Files, described elsewhere, for additional correspondence with other individuals.

Bx. 4 (cont.)

18. Requests for Information and Publications. Jan. 1911 - March 1913. 1 in.

Requests from constituents and others for copies of State publications and general information about pending legislation in the State Legislature; FDR's replies; and mailing lists. Among the correspondents are: Joseph W. Alsop, Theodore Roosevelt's brother-in-law, N.B. Critchfield, Secretary of Agriculture of Pennsylvania, Martin W. Littleton, a candidate for U.S. Senator in 1911; Herbert E. Mills, Professor at Vassar College, Raymond N. Pierson, New York State Commissioner of Agriculture, H.C. Price, Dean of the College of Agriculture at Ohio State University, T. Douglas Robinson, State Chairman of the National Progressive Party, and Horace White, former Lieutenant Governor of New York.

19. Miscellaneous and Unidentified Subjects. Jan. 1911 - March 1913. 1 in.

Letters to FDR on miscellaneous subjects, such as requests for his autograph or photograph, requests for charitable donations, petitions on behalf of persons seeking pardons from the Governor, and isolated letters commenting generally on national political matters, such as the heritage of Grover Cleveland, the work of Robert La Follette, Sr., and the formation of a new political party. Also included are letters that contain obscure references or that ^{are} un-identified as to subject or author.

Legislative Files

FDR's correspondence files below (nos. 20 to 57) relate to various legislative bills and resolutions pending in the New York State Legislature during the sessions of 1911, 1912, and 1913, and are arranged under about 35 subject classes of legislation. Letters and petitions from constituents, political leaders, and organized groups urging their views upon FDR predominate in these files, and many of the correspondents are from outside FDR's home district of Dutchess, Columbia, and Putnam Counties. FDR's replies are also present in most cases, and frequently they contain his views on a given piece of legislation. Of the several hundred bills and resolutions represented in this correspondence, about 75 were introduced in the State Senate by FDR, but rarely are his drafts or other copies of such legislation present in these files. Whether such copies, as well as other records relating to the history of State legislation in the period 1911-13, exist in the archives of the State Legislature in Albany has not been determined.

The legislative files below do not contain all of FDR's correspondence on legislative subjects. Other, additional legislative correspondence is present in the Name Files (see file nos. 58 to 385 below), filed under the name of the political leader with whom FDR had a continuing correspondence on more than one subject. For a guide to such related correspondence, consult the appropriate subject entries in the index at the end of this inventory.

Box 5 20. Agricultural Bills. Jan. 1911 - March 1913. 3 in.

FDR's correspondence with dairymen, fruit growers, grain dealers, and other individuals and organizations interested in legislation affecting agricultural ^{production and marketing} in New York State. Enclosures to correspondence occasionally include petitions, reports, and some printed materials. Bills pertain to feed tax, agricultural credit, cold storage of foods, control of tubercular cattle, regulation of production and sale of milk, and appropriations for county agricultural societies and farm bureau organizations. ^{Among} ~~Some~~ of the organizations represented are the New York State Association of Union Agricultural Societies, the New York Milk Committee, the Jewish Agricultural and Industrial Aid Society, the Russell Sage Foundation, and the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

21. Banking Bills. May 1911 - March 1913. 21 items.

Correspondence between FDR and bank officials and others, and consisting chiefly of criticisms and protests against proposed legislation to increase the surplus required of saving banks.

22. Canal Bills. Jan. - July 1911. $\frac{1}{2}$ in.

Correspondence dealing chiefly with the bills to provide canal terminals at Buffalo and other New York cities, and to abolish the Canal Advisory Board. There is also a report of the Executive Committee of the Barge Canal Terminal Conference, a pamphlet containing copies of barge canal legislation enacted in the period 1903-1910, and a map of a proposed barge canal terminal at Buffalo.

23. Cemetery Bills. Feb. - March 1913. 8 items.

Correspondence between FDR and constituents regarding amendments to existing laws on cemeteries in incorporated and unincorporated communities, and a draft of the Green Wood Cemetery Bill introduced by FDR (1913) and containing revisions made by him.

24. Civil Service Bills. May 1911 - Feb. 1913. [#]₁ in.

Correspondence regarding State civil-service legislation, chiefly the Walker bill to protect employees from the "spoils system." Included in the file are bills drafted by the Civil Service Reform Association, New York City, with accompanying letters requesting FDR to introduce the bills in the Senate.

Bxs. 5-6

25. Commission Merchants Bills. Oct. 1912 - March 1913.

6 in.

This file contains letters, telegrams and other papers, relating to bills introduced into the Legislature to amend the State Agricultural Law with respect to the sale of farm produce on commission. The largest part relates to FDR's own bill (S. Int. No. 363) introduced into the Senate when he was Chairman of the Committee on Agriculture (1913). The letters are from granges, county agricultural societies, government officials, commission merchants, university professors, rural constituents, and others, and contain expressions of opinion on the above bills, most of it favorable to FDR's bill; many of the letters are accompanied by petitions, newspaper clippings, reports and printed materials, including a circular letter signed by FDR (1912), letters of opposition by the National League of Commission Merchants, New York City, and copies of legislative bills. Includes also a typescript report (99 pp.) of minutes of the meeting of the Joint Senate and Assembly Committee~~s~~ on Agriculture, presided over by FDR, Feb. 10, 1913.

Bxs. 6-7

26. Conservation Bills. Jan. 1911 - March 1913. 8 in.

Correspondence and other papers, relating primarily to ten bills introduced by FDR when he was Chairman of the Senate Forest, Fish, and Game Committee. The correspondence is with Conservation Commission officials, conservation societies, sportsmen's clubs, and others, and deals with such legislative subjects as the conservation of timber on public and private lands, the protection of watersheds, open and closed seasons on fish and game, hunting and fishing licenses, the establishment of game farms, and the stocking of lakes and the distribution of pheasant eggs. Among the organizations and individuals represented in this file are the Camp-Fire Club of America, the New York Association for Protection of Game, Remington Arms Company, the Oystermen's Protective Association, the National Association of Audubon Societies, the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society, and the Legal Aid Society. Also included are minutes of committee hearings, memoranda, petitions from Dutchess County constituents, work notes, copies of bills (some with pencilled notes and revisions), and printed material.

filed by date

B*7
27. Education Bills. Feb. 1911 - March 1913.

Chiefly letters by educators and other constituents supporting or opposing proposed legislation relating to State normal schools, teachers' retirement and pensions, consolidation of rural schools, appointment and licensing of teachers, and schools for the blind. Organizations represented are the ~~Executive Committee~~ of Public Education Association, International Sunshine Society of New York, and the Board of Education of New York City.

28. Erie County Division Bill. May 1911. 5 items.

Letters from Buffalo, N.Y., citizens protesting against a "ripper bill" for the establishment of new boundaries in Erie County, and FDR's replies, indicating his opposition to bill.

29. Fire Protection Bills. May 1911 - March 1913. 15 items.

Letters from the Women's Trade Union League and from the Committee on Safety of the City of New York supporting fire protection legislation for "first-class" cities, and letters from Columbia, Dutchess, and Putnam County school officials opposing legislation to transfer the responsibilities for fire drills to the State fire marshal; and FDR's replies.

30. Health Bills. April 1911 - March 1913. 18 items.

Letters, sometimes with accompanying resolutions, from Dutchess County constituents and others commenting on legislation for the control of tuberculosis, vaccination of school children, transfer of New York Port quarantine functions to the Federal Government, the discontinuance of town boards of health, and the improvement of sanitary conditions in hotels. Correspondents outside Dutchess County include Thomas W. Salmon, Director of Special Studies for the National Committee for Mental Hygiene, New York City, and Walter M. Winn, representing the United Commercial Travelers of America, Utica, N.Y.

31. Highway Bills. Feb. 1911 - March 1913. 2 in.

Letters, petitions, resolutions and other papers, including FDR's replies, pertaining chiefly to legislation affecting the construction and maintenance of county and State roads in Dutchess, Columbia, and Putnam Counties, abolition of the State Highway Commission, the selection of highway patrolmen, the use of convict labor on roads, and the control of reckless driving. Other papers present are a certificate, signed by Governor John A. Name Files

Each of the ³²⁷~~331~~ "Name Files" described below (files no. 58 to 385) represents a political or civic leader, a personal friend, or a constituent with whom FDR had a continuing correspondence that extended to more than a single subject of legislative or political business. In the entries that follow, each person has normally been identified in terms of the institution or interests that he represented at the time, and his correspondence with FDR is further described in terms of significant subjects or issues discussed.

Excluded from the series below are about 400 additional, minor name files that have been removed from the original series, as acquired from FDR, in the course of preparing this inventory. These additional name files were each limited to a single legislative or political matter already represented by a major subject file (in file nos. 1 to 57 passim), and so they were consolidated with ^{such} ~~these~~ subject files. While this consolidation has resulted in "suppressing" some 400 personal-name file headings, the names nevertheless appear, if significant, in the descriptive entries for those subject files and also in the index at the end of this volume.
