Dear Paula:

Even though I asked Grace to thank you for the very attractive sachets, I want to send you this note to tell you that I think they are very lovely and how much I appreciate your thought of me on my birthday.

We have had such a strenuous time since then it seems a very long time ago.

With all good wishes,

Affectionately,

Franklin D. Roosevelt

Dear Grace:

I never saw such a fascinating lemon squeezer! I rather imagine it was designed for other than simple lemon or orange juice but I shall take it to Hyde Park and make good use of it. It was sweet of you to think of me.

With all good wishes for the
New Year, I am

Dear Grace:

We are having the President's birthday dinner on the 29th of January this year at 7:30 here in the White House.

I thought instead of making speeches at the dinner this year, it would be amusing if each person would come either in costume or with something to present to the President as a reminder of some special incident, and the President will be asked to guess what the incident is. The other guests may join in the contest and we will all keep score. If the President has a perfect score, he will be given a prize. Of course if you prefer making a speech describing your incident, or to write something to be read, or in some way to act out the incident, that will be fine. The ladies as usual will leave the gentlemen free after dinner for their usual entertainment.

We are hoping very much that you will be able to come and are looking forward to a happy evening.

Very sincerely yours,

Eleanor Roosevelt

Dear Grace:

I know you will not be back in Washington on your birthday and I am hoping that this can be forwarded to you.
I am sending it to the White House with that request.

I hope you and Missy are having a grand trip, and this brings you every good wish for a very happy birthday.

Affectionately,

Memorandum for Miss Tully

Dear Grace:

The birthday dinner for the President will be at 7:30, on Monday, January 30, and we are counting very much on having you with us.

I am asking everyone to come prepared with a forecast of what may happen to the President in the coming year, and it will be a general fortune-telling party.

Memorandum for Miss Tully

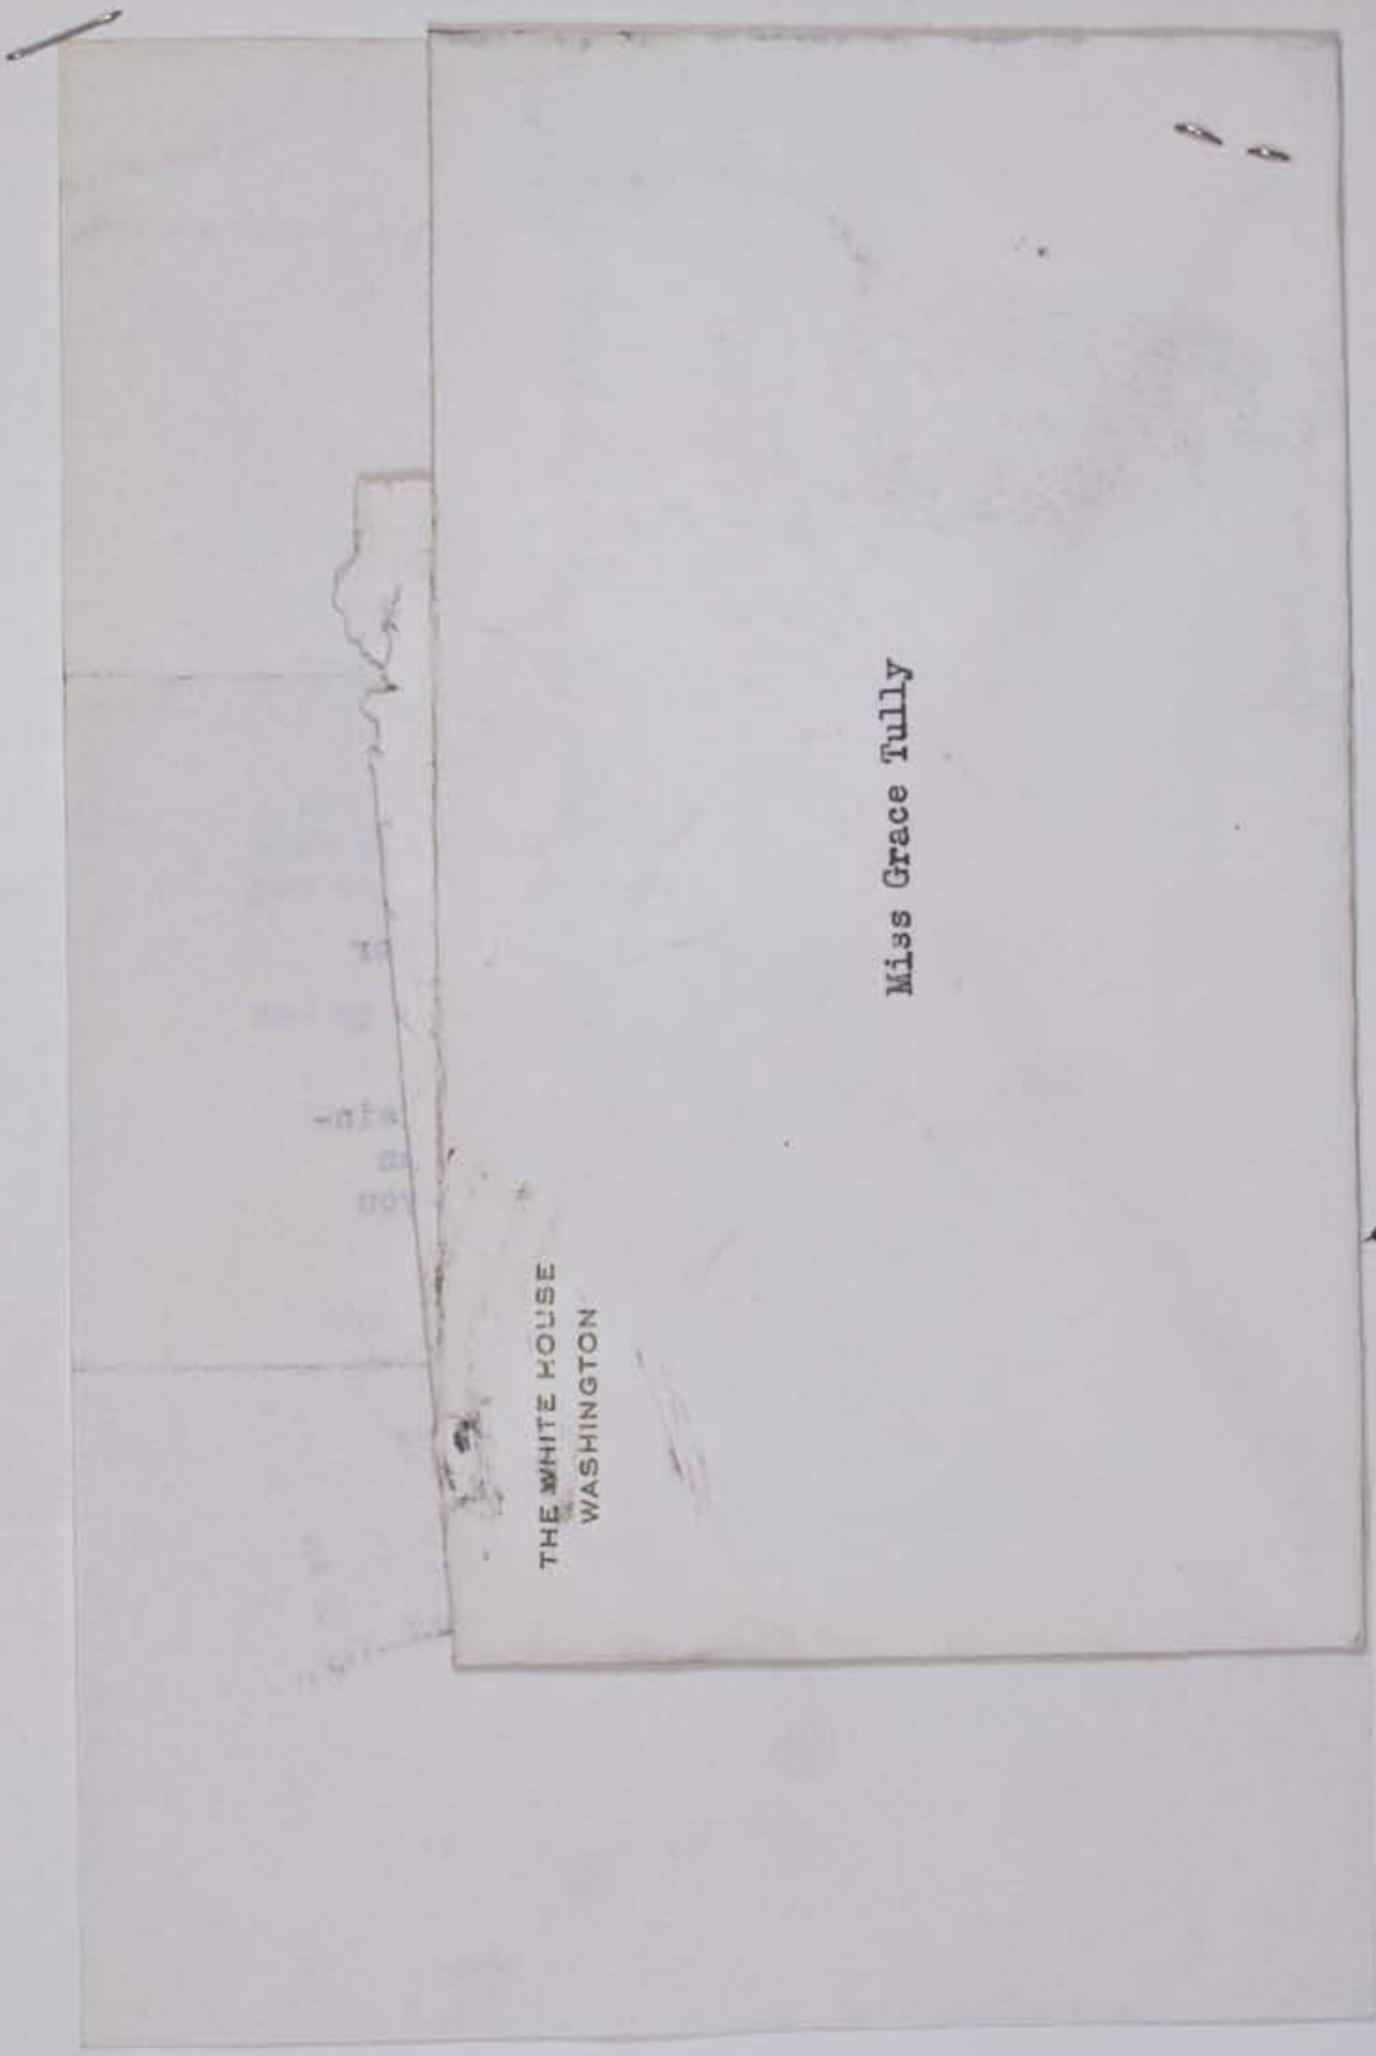

Dear Grace:

We are planning the birthday party for the President, as usual, for January 30, at 7:30.

I am not asking anyone to do anything special in the way of entertainment, but I hope very much if you can think of anything to do as a stunt you will let me know.
